Memory Foam Mattress Sale

Say goodnight to back pain!!

Benefit from the latest advance in sleep technology... at affordable prices

Why Choose Memory Foam?

If you wake every morning with a crick in your neck or stiff back, chances are your mattress is either too soft or too hard. Try a Memory Foam mattress which provides a sleep surface that conforms to your body weight and shape.

Is Memory Foam the Best Support for those Aching Joints?

When you take into consideration the amount of pressure you place on your shoulder and hips if you are a side sleeper, neck if you are a stomach sleeper or lower back if you are a back sleeper, you will realise that visco-elastic pressure sensitive foam will offer you the best chance for reducing the overall pressure placed on your joints by contouring them without pushing back against them.

- Moulds to your individual shape
- Relaxes your muscles and joints
- Supports neck, back, shoulders and legs
- Even weight and pressure distribution
- Unique Air Layer™ for added comfort
- Non allergenic and anti-bacterial
- Removable washable cover on certain models

EVERYBODY'S WORST HORROR

Tragic: Rugby club stalwart James Peters and his wife Susan, who had celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary just days before the fatal crash

EP22541

Man helps at accident only to find victim is his own wife

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

A good Samaritan who stopped to help at the scene of a road accident discovered the woman who lay dying in the road was his own wife.

James Peters, of Oxshott Road, Leatherhead, had been on his way to pick up his wife Susan from work on Friday when he came across the scene, just yards where he usually picked her up.

Mr Peters, 61, who is president of Twickenham Rugby Club and runs his own central heating business, said that he parked and, assuming his 60-year-old wife had not yet arrived, went to see if he could help the injured lady.

Mr Peters said: "There was a lady lying in the road and she looked in a bad way.

"I was kneeling on the floor by a man trying to help her as they waited for paramedics.

"I was trying to help him for about six or seven minutes and then someone handed me her handbag. I recognised it as being my wife's and then recognised her clothes.

"I was totally devastated." In a further twist, the couple, who have three sons and four grandchildren, had just celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary just days earlier.

"She was a perfect wife, she had no faults whatsoever, she never said a bad word against anyone," Mr Peters said. "We first met when we were teenagers at a party, I was 16-years-old and she was 15-years-old and we were together since then."

Mr Peters, who is a magistrate in Richmond, added that they had only just moved to Leatherhead from Hampton and were in the process of refurbishing their £1million home.

Mrs Peters had worked for Surrey County Council in Kingston for 15 years and this week her colleagues paid tribute to her.

Patricia Greer, the council's strategic director for communities, said: "Our thoughts and sympathies are with Sue's family and relatives at this difficult time.

"Sue was a valued colleague and a very dear friend to many of the team at our contact centre, having been with the county council for 14 years.

"Sue was a lovely lady, respected and liked by all who knew her and we will all miss her very much."

A Surrey Police spokeswoman said: "A 25-year-old man from Fetcham was arrested and has been released on police bail until November 7 in connection with this incident."

Trust in check-up u-turn

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

Hospital bosses have been charging junior doctors £36 for compulsory criminal record bureau (CRB) checks.

However, after national outrage this week, Epsom and St Helier Hospitals NHS Trust has been forced into a u-turn over the policy.

It followed publicity in national newspapers that some trusts, including Epsom and St Helier, were charging junior doctors for the criminal record bureau checks.

As the doctors move hospitals every six months to gain experience of different branches of medicine they face regular bills for the checks.

Dr Ram Moorthy, chairman of the British Medical Association's junior doctors committee said: "We have recently heard of examples where trusts are passing the costs of CRB checks on to junior doctors - this must stop."

"It is unacceptable for junior doctors to be made the scapegoat for penny-pinching trusts in financial difficulty. It is difficult to think of another profession where employees are asked to prove that they are not criminals with such alarming frequency never mind being asked to foot the bill."

He said junior doctors should not have to go through checks every six months as it was leading to delays in starting work and leaving hospitals short of staff.

Dr Moorthy said: "Junior doctors understand the need for CRB checks to ensure public safety. But making them complete a new CRB check every time they move post, which can be every six months, is a waste of time and leaves them unable to treat patients until their CRB check is processed. It is high time hospital trusts started to communicate with each other to end this bureaucratic nonsense."

A spokesman for Epsom and St Helier said: "Epsom and St

Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust takes the safety and security of its patients very seriously and undertakes CRB checks on all of its clinical staff to ensure that they are suitable to take up their position.

"Until recently, the trust did charge junior doctors for their CRB checks. We are pleased to report, however, that this policy has been repealed, with the trust covering the full cost of all CRB checks."

"It is important to note, however, that the decision to implement the original policy was discussed and agreed by a local negotiating committee made up of consultants and a BMA representative."

NEWSbrief

PRISON EMERGENCY: Epsom fire crews donned special protective suits when they were called to High Down Prison on Monday afternoon when it was feared that dangerous chemicals had been thrown in the visitor's centre. A spokesman for the Prison Service said: "Two bottles of an unknown substance were checked by emergency services and found to be harmless." Surrey police are investigating an allegation of assault at the prison but refused to comment further.

NAME YOUR HEROES: The deadline is approaching to nominate community volunteer heroes for a Reigate and Banstead's mayor's community award. The mayor's annual community awards Scheme invites local organisations, or persons who benefit from the help of volunteers, to recognise the good work of these individuals by nominating them for a community award. Nominations must be received by September 12.

DONATE OLD CARS: Another appeal has gone out for old cars that Epsom's fire crews can cut up to practise their rescue drills. They have even sent out an invitation to vehicle donors to come and see their old cars and vans being skillfully sliced apart as the firefighters get to grips with their rescue equipment. People who volunteer their vehicles must be able to provide full documentation for them. Surrey Fire and Rescue Service will arrange for the disposal of the pieces of car once they have finished with them. To volunteer a vehicle call the Epsom fire station on 01372 722223.

Pet cat 'ripped apart' by dogs

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

A family has been left distraught after their pet cat Bonnie was ripped apart by dogs owned by two teenage thugs.

The bloodthirsty yobs laughed and shouted encouragement as their two dogs brutally killed the cat before picking it up and swinging it around in the road.

Kenneth Johnson, 57, of Pine Walk, in Banstead said that he and his wife were devastated at the cruel attack and were fearful that other cats in the area could suffer.

"We found Bonnie on Friday, laying on the pavement in the road and we thought she had been run over," he said. "While we were upset by it, these things happen. But a neighbour contacted us Saturday morning to say that some youths had set their dogs on to Bonnie and they ripped her apart. One dog ran up the road with the cat in its mouth before one of the youngsters swung her around into a garden.

"The neighbour saw the two lads and got her husband out and he chased them in the car but they got away.

"We want to warn people. If these lads can walk the streets and think it's a laugh, how many cats are going to be murdered in the same way?"

Mr Johnson and his wife, got Bonnie from the Samaritans together with her brother Charlie and were concerned that their remaining cat could become lonely.

"My wife was upset but she was worried that Charlie would be alone because he's always had company," Mr Johnson said.

"So we went back to the Samaritans and got a kitten before we knew how Bonnie had been killed. We now feel nervous about having a young cat. We're wondering whether it could happen again."

A spokeswoman for Surrey Police said police were currently investigating the incident.

Horrific: Pet cat Bonnie was attacked by thugs' dogs

Couple will mark 65 years together

There will be champagne and congratulations flowing as Elsie and Bert Hunt toast each other for their star sapphire anniversary.

The couple will be joined for their celebration by their bridesmaids Barbara Stead and Audrey Pointer who accompanied Elsie down the aisle 65 years ago today.

More than 20 people will gather at The Queen's Stand, Epsom Downs, to raise a congratulatory glass to the couple whose golden and diamond anniversaries are now well in the past and are heading for their platinum anniversary.

The couple, who have one son, Robert, who lives nearby in Burgh Heath Road, still enjoy gardening and a weekly bingo session.

"We are so pleased that everyone is coming to join us for our celebration," said Mrs Hunt.

When they tied the knot it was the year that the siege of Stalingrad came to an end, there was an uprising in the Warsaw ghetto and it was the year of the Dambusters' heroics.

Closer to home Glenn Miller enchanted listeners with his version of Begin the Beguine and a rather pathetic song by Harry Roy, When Can I have a Banana Again? reflected the wartime rationing hardships.

Mrs Hunt, 86, spent time in service at Woodcote House, Epsom, in her teens before moving to Wiltshire and has now come full circle, living in Oakmead Green, Woodcote Side, Epsom with Bert, 86 who spent his life on the railways.

Happy: Elsie and Bert celebrate

Puppy returns

A puppy which was stolen from a farm during a burglary has been returned to its owners with the help of DNA testing.

The burglary happened at the farm near Guildford in May when burglars stole the seven-week old Border collie puppy from an outbuilding. Fortunately the owner was able to get the registration plate of the car they escaped in and passed it to police.

"The car registration led us to an address in Guildford," investigating officer PC Mike Patey said. "Further checks revealed there was in fact a Border collie puppy residing at this address. The next step was to prove it was the one which had been stolen, which involved DNA testing of the puppy and its parents by the force vet. The results showed it was the stolen puppy. He has since been reunited with the family who bought him before the break-in."

"On this occasion, it also led to a family being reunited with a dog they thought they would never see again."

A 38-year-old man from Ashted was one of two people arrested on suspicion of burglary but no further action was taken because of lack of evidence.

Mormon kidnapper horse theft claim

The kidnapper who gained global attention after having her pit bull cloned is now wanted for yet another bizarre crime.

She is accused of planning a burglary with a teenage boy to get enough cash to buy a false leg for her three-legged horse. The story of Joyce McKinney, who was accused of kidnapping a Mormon missionary in Ewell in 1977, is becoming quite surreal.

Miss McKinney and her accomplice appeared at Epsom Magistrates' Court and then spent three months in Hol- loway Prison accused of

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

kidnapping and sex crimes.

After being released on bail, she fled to America and was never brought to trial. She disappeared for a while and is thought to have disguised herself as a nun before earning a living as a glamour model.

Joyce, also known as Bernann McKinney, who earlier this year paid £25,000 to have her dead pet recreated, is also accused of instructing a 15-year-old boy to break into a house in Tennessee because she needed funds to help another beloved animal, her three-legged horse.

David Crockett, Miss McKinney's lawyer in the Tennessee case, said she hoped to get money to buy a false leg for the animal. "She loved it dearly," he said.

He said he had not heard from his client since she missed a court appearance for the alleged 2004 offence.

However, after seeing media coverage of the dog cloning, he said he was certain she and the dog lover calling herself Bernann McKinney were the same person.

Miss McKinney made headlines around the world when she had five puppies cloned in South Korea from her pit bull Booger. She said she was a screenwriter from Hollywood and gave an address that turned out not to exist.

Publicity surrounding the cloning led to her being identified as a woman who allegedly abducted a Mormon missionary in Ewell, chained him to a bed with mink-lined handcuffs and made him her sex slave.

The missionary was forced to have sex with McKinney before escaping, investigators said.

British police have said that due to the age of the case, they will not seek her extradition but she may still face charges in America relating to the alleged burglary for her three-legged horse.

Double celebration: Joan and Jim will hit 90 within a week of each other Deadline: EP22479

Whopping 180 candles to blow out

Jim and Joan Porter have a huge celebration ahead of them - they both celebrate their 90th birthdays within a week of each other.

Jim will be blowing out the candles on his cake on Monday, August 25, while Joan passes the landmark the following Monday.

To get ready for the celebration, 23 members of their family and friends will travel from as far afield as Spain to join them for a lunch party on Sunday at Bridge House Hotel, Reigate.

The couple, who live in Poplar Crescent, Ewell, met as teenagers but both married other people.

After losing their spouses, they met up again in 1993.

Jim said: "We met at a dinner party at the house of a mutual friend and we decided that we would stick together."

Both are keen on cruising and are planning another trip later in the year after visiting Jim's daughter Sue in Spain in October.

"We both like cruising but we prefer to do them in the winter," he said.

PCSO organised £1,300 walkies

An Epsom police community support officer (PCSO) has helped raise at least £1,300 following a hugely successful sponsored dog walk in Court recreation ground in Epsom.

Epsom Town PCSO Mags Johnson organised the event, which attracted 32 dog and owner entries and raised money for four local causes.

These are Epsom Primary School, the 7th Epsom Scouts, St Barnabas Church, Epsom, and the SeeAbility Royal School for the Blind, also in Epsom.

Fostering with Sutton - Benefiting local children

Sutton has over 100 looked after children. These children are unable to live with their own families and need people to give them a stable and loving environment. We offer our foster carers:

- a close network of peer support groups
- competitive weekly allowances
- great training opportunities.

If you have a spare room that you could transform into a safe place for a child, you could also transform their life. Call us today for more information.

A good soaking

There is still time for young firefighters who do not mind getting wet to sign up for Tuesday's firefighter for the day course at Epsom Fire Station.

Junior recruits must be aged between 12 and 15, have proof of age, a change of clothes and a packed lunch to take part in the one-day course at the Church Road fire station on August 26.

The course, from 8.30am to 3.30pm, includes lessons on how to use a hose, how to use breathing apparatus and how to cut up a car to rescue an accident victim.

For details and to book a place, call the fire station on 01372 722223. There will be a repeat course on September 1.

Breastfeed here

A "You can do it here" web guide to places where breastfeeding mothers are welcome in Surrey is to be published later this year by Surrey Primary Care Trust.

Last week, the Department of Health announced that an extra £2m would be invested to help more women in England breastfeed.

Volunteer space

The award-winning Freewheelers Theatre Company for disabled performers needs a helping hand.

It needs the use of a garage or similar storage area where props can be kept. The theatre group meets at Leatherhead but its members come from throughout the district. Anyone who can help should call Viv Colvill on 01932 860950.

Old hands: Display Contractors did previous town-centre displays and already have decorations

Lighting firm in dark over Xmas display

A lighting company boss who decorated Epsom town centre with Christmas lights two years ago is baffled as to why he has not been approached again.

Geoff Dowse, of Display Contractors in Leatherhead, said that they could create a festive display for a quarter of the price that the council claims it needs.

"We put lights up all around Epsom, Stoneleigh and Ewell two years ago," he said. "We were booked to put them up again last year but we were cancelled right at the last moment and they did a cheap deal with local students instead."

"The students produced some displays which were put in shop windows but nobody could even see them. We offered to help put them up but because they were trying to get a freebie they completely cut us out of it and refused to pay the booking fee.

"We did a cracking job when we did it. We weren't even told that we had been cancelled, we read it in the paper. But we'd be very happy to redo the installation this year."

"We can do it all for about £5,000 because we already have the decorations, so I don't really understand why the council are saying they need to raise £20,000."

The only business in town that has a Christmas lights display is Lester Bowden, traditional sporting outfitters, owned by Richard Bowden.

After the Epsom Guardian contacted the town's Chamber of Commerce they revealed they have now contacted Display Contractors as a result and had asked for a quote.

To get involved contact the Epsom Guardian using the details on page 4.

'Food above public pride'

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

A councillor has slammed the council's decision to spend more than £11,000-a-year on mayoral dinners but only offer a one off amount of £6,000 for Christmas lights.

Epsom and Ewell Borough Council spent £11,339 last year on civic functions for dignitaries including the mayor and town councillors.

But leader of Epsom's Liberal Democrats Julie Morris, said that the council should spend the money on things that would make residents feel proud, rather than simply feeding politicians.

She said: "Certainly mayoral dinners and a lot of the civic arrangements, the pomp and ceremony, do not have to be as expensive as they are."

"I see no reason why councillors should not pay for their own dinners. The Lib Dem councillors do not do council freebies, we pay for our own meals so why can't the other councillors?"

"I think mayoral activities are important but I don't think they should be a cost drain."

A council spokeswoman said: "Our expenditures are on a par with other Surrey councils' mayoral costs."

"These events play a vital part in the community, providing an opportunity for residents to be honoured and celebrated. They are long held and much loved traditions of Epsom and Ewell."

Surfer braves current to save children from sea

A surfer has been hailed a hero after risking his own life to save a teenager and two children from drowning – and then unwinding with a cup of tea.

Andrew Phelps, of Cunningham Road, Banstead, was surfing while on holiday in Wales when he spotted the youngsters getting into difficulty last week.

The 45-year-old swam over to help the two 12-year-olds and a 15-year-old as their own families watched helplessly from the beach.

"I managed to get them to hold onto the board," he said. "With the current flowing and some pretty big waves breaking over their heads, they were panicking. They couldn't go left or right or get back to shore."

"We were all kicking as hard as we could to get free of the currents."

"I was in the right place at the right time. Someone just needed to get a board out to them, to give them something to hold on to."

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

"I think they would have been in real trouble without a board."

His partner Catherine Lester, 45, watched the harrowing rescue and said it was a "surreal" experience.

The Cheam Fields primary school headteacher, said: "We were standing with the mother of one of the children and had to stop her from going into the water," she said.

"We were just watching it all unfold, knowing that we couldn't go in because we'd be risking our own lives. It was just surreal really, watching people almost drown and not being able to do anything."

"At one stage one of the kids let go of the board and tried swimming in. They were taking in a lot of water on the board. They were out for about 15 minutes but it felt like a very long time, it was awful."

"As soon as the helicopter landed we went back to the

chalet and had a cup of tea."

The 15-year-old boy and the two 12-year-old girls, along with their fathers were all airlifted to hospital for minor treatment.

Police warn of cashpoint theft

Bank customers have been warned to take extra care when using cashpoint machines following a distraction theft.

The incident took place in Leatherhead three weeks ago when a woman who was trying to use a cash machine in North Street was approached by three men. They told her the machine had swallowed their card and she should not use it.

They then placed a blue piece of paper over the keypad and removed her card.

The victim shouted at the men who ran off and got into a waiting green car.

Although the woman cancelled her card after the incident, her bank account was accessed and hundreds of pounds was withdrawn.

Investigating officer, Detective Constable Dale Brunt said: "It is important people do not become easily distracted when withdrawing money from ATMs."

"Make sure you check your surroundings when using the machines and if you see anyone hanging around cancel your transaction and remove your card."

"These distraction style thefts are taken extremely seriously by Surrey police but we need your help to bring those responsible for committing this offence to justice."

The first suspect is described as an Asian man, aged between 25 and 30, 5ft 7in to 5ft 8in tall, with, possibly, a small moustache and wearing a white shirt.

The second suspect is described as an Asian man.

The third suspect is described as Asian, aged between 14 and 18, approximately 4ft 10in tall and wearing a bandana or a scarf over his head.

Anyone with information is asked to contact detectives at Epsom CID on 0845 125 2222 quoting reference MV/08/1926.

You can also call Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Mystery liquid attack

A man had an unknown liquid sprayed in his eyes during a botched robbery on Monday evening.

The 50-year-old man was about to get into his car outside his home in Winkworth Road, Banstead, at 9.20pm, when he was approached by a man who tried to grab the rucksack he was carrying.

The two men struggled, with the man punching the victim in the face and spraying liquid into his eyes.

The victim's wife intervened and pulled the man off her husband as two of his children recovered the rucksack, forcing the man to leave empty handed.

The victim was left with minor injuries to his face and head from the struggle and was taken to Epsom General Hospital where he also received treatment for the liquid sprayed in his eyes.

Detective Sergeant Jak

Bowers said: "This was a particularly unusual and rare crime and one where we believe the victim had been specifically targeted."

"We do not know what sort of liquid was sprayed into the victim's face, but it was clearly an irritant and the whole incident has left the victim feeling very distressed."

The suspect is described as a white man, aged in his late 30s or early 40s, about 6ft 1in tall, of stocky build and with a shaven head.

He was wearing what may have been a brown jacket, with blue jeans and black leather gloves.

Police believe he may have travelled in an old-style white Peugeot estate hatchback.

Footballer not told of attack to aid recovery

A footballer beaten and left for dead while on holiday has not been told of the attack that left him in a coma for two weeks.

Robert Hughes, 27, who joined Sutton United in February, has since started to walk after the assault outside a nightclub in Malia, Crete on June 17.

But his brother David, 36, said the family have yet to tell him how he got his injuries – caused when he was jumped on by thugs who kicked him to the ground, stamped on his head and bottled him.

David said: "For him personally I think it is better that we talk about positive things and how we can get him back to a fit state again, not concentrating on subjects that are negative and upsetting."

"We talk a lot about football and coaching and I think that motivates him to get better."

"It's difficult to describe what it is like to see him like this – I had a brother who has gone from being a top athlete to needing constant care."

He said: "At one point we thought he was never going to wake up and that he would be a vegetable but he has improved and that is a real sign of strength. He understands how serious his injuries are, but we keep

by JULIA KENNARD

jkenard@london.newsquest.co.uk

reassuring him that it will be OK."

David has quit as manager of Central Midlands Premier Division side Blidworth Welfare FC to help care for his brother while he remains in hospital in Crete.

He said an operation on Robert's skull had to be postponed until his body was ready to cope.

After the attack Robert had suffered several skull fractures and had to have parts removed to ease the pressure on his swollen, bleeding brain. The next operation would be to put the remaining skull parts back in.

David said: "The club have been very supportive and understand that I want to dedicate as much time as I can to help Rob."

"I last saw him about a week ago and the operation had to be postponed until conditions are right."

"We hope that after the operation he will be able to continue his recovery back in the UK, but even then he will need lots and lots of rehabilitation."

Robert, who has three other brothers and three sisters, played for Croydon Athletic last season, before joining Sutton United in February and was about to sign for Bromley FC where he was also going to be working as a fitness instructor.

David said Robert was surrounded by his girlfriend Charlotte Kent, 25, and his parents Margaret and David who have moved to Malia to be by his side.

In a message posted on the Sutton FC website, Robert's mother said: "As a family we feel very lost and alone as we are still in Greece nine weeks later and Robert still has to undergo at least one more brain operation to try and place the skull back without the pressure rising."

"Robert's recovery will be slow and today we were told because of his injuries it could be at least three to four more weeks before the fourth operation can take place. As a family we want to thank you all for not only your ongoing support but also the kind words and good wishes that you have sent in our hour of need."

Five men arrested over the attack have been allowed to travel back to their homes in Surrey and Sussex without charge.

The family have been advised that the five suspects could be extradited to Greece to face trial.

Vehicle flips over at traffic lights

Flipped: The crash scene

A van driver was arrested on suspicion of drink-driving after his vehicle flipped over at a set of traffic lights in Belmont Rise.

No one was using the crossing when the Ford transit vehicle hit the central reservation of the A217 and overturned shortly before 7am on Saturday.

The 27-year-old driver escaped from the wreckage with minor hand injuries. He was later taken to Sutton police station but released on bail.

Motorists continued to face traffic disruption over the weekend because three traffic lights were damaged in the collision.

A Metropolitan police spokesman said: "The driver was arrested on suspicion of drink-driving and has been bailed to return to Sutton police station."

"He was taken to hospital with minor injuries to a hand. No other vehicles and no pedestrians were involved."

Ted Luckhurst, from Sutton, was travelling to work in Dorking when he came across the crash scene at about 7.40am.

He said: "It was quite horrific. The car had landed on the section where people cross the road and they had a job moving it."

"It could have been a lot worse if there had been anyone by the crossing."

Cyclist triumphs despite harsh, windy conditions

A young cyclist has claimed victory in the British junior men's road race championships in Buckinghamshire.

Eighteen-year-old Erick Rowsell from Cheam broke clear from the leading pack and climbed his way to victory on Sunday.

Rowsell attacked on the last lap of the rolling circuit in the Chiltern Hills and had the strength and determination to hold a slender 12 second lead on the tough run in to the finish despite the windy conditions.

Rowsell claimed the second family victory this year after his sister Joanna won the women's under-23 road race.

Joanna also took home a gold medal in the women's team pursuit at the World Track Championships in Manchester in March.

Rowsell had vowed not to make the same mistakes as last year.

He said: "I waited for the sprint last year and won the bronze so this year I decided to try something different and go on the attack more."

"I tried going away with two laps to go. The break split up behind me so I waited for the first group to catch me and I attacked again on the last lap."

"It was a bit risky because there was still 16km to go but I felt strong and managed to hold on."

Garden change

An uninviting community garden at a sheltered housing project in Sutton has been transformed into a flourishing wildlife haven.

Volunteers spent more than 1,000 hours, over three years, creating comfortable seating areas and landscaping the open space in Clarence Road.

Since the unveiling ceremony on July 30, residents have taken every opportunity to relax outdoors, surrounded by 300 plants, ladybirds, frogs and stag beetles.

Stephen Adams, the sheltered housing officer for Sutton Housing Partnership, said: "The new garden is all about helping our residents to increase their independence and have more mobility throughout the year."

The next challenge will involve laying a smooth all-weather path."

Struggling to cope: Gemma Bourke holding seven-month-old Sonny, with Alfie and Loe in the room they share

Deadlinepix SU22444

Living in one room with a broken back

by JAMES PEPPER

jpepper@london.newsquest.co.uk

A family of four is being forced to sleep in a single bedroom after the council refused to rehouse them.

Mother-of-three Gemma Bourke, 26, fractured her spine late in June after an accident in her flat that left her bed-ridden in hospital for a week.

Following the fall, Miss Bourke – who was forced to wear a metal brace to keep her back straight, was told by doctors she should not return to her flat in Wentworth Court in Wallington as there is a risk the injury could recur.

Miss Bourke has to negotiate six flights of stairs to get to her flat because there are no lifts in her block. Doctors fear tackling these stairs could damage Miss Bourke's spine further.

Miss Bourke said: "My son Alfie has autism. If I had to clamber up those stairs carrying my baby, the pushchair and the shopping, and he had a bad turn, I hate to think what would happen."

Three different doctors have written to the council advising them that Miss Bourke should be rehoused, but the head of council housing has told Miss Bourke that because the injury is not ongoing, she will have to carry on bidding for a new house.

Miss Bourke said: "The council wanted proof of the accident, then when the doctors wrote to them, we had to wait three weeks for them to tell us would not be rehoused."

"I'm living in a room at my mum's house with my three kids, it's just not right," added Miss Bourke.

Miss Bourke, whose three children Alfie, six, Loe, five, and Sonny, seven months, said the family were suffering under the strain of being couped up in a single room.

"My mum and I used to get on famously, but now we are at each other's throats. The kids are finding all this very hard."

A Sutton Council spokesman said: "The information we have received both from her doctor at the St Helier Hospital and also our own medical advisor is that her back injury is short-term and not likely to lead to long-term disability. A short-term injury or physical impairment is not sufficient grounds to move a tenant in social rented accommodation."

Elderly getting organised to fight eviction

Elderly residents facing eviction from their homes to make way for a new developments are starting a protest action group.

Eighty-five elderly residents will be holding a meeting to appoint a committee to fight Sutton Council's proposals to rehouse the OAPs away from their sheltered community.

The action group, which will attempt to avert the demolition of the site, will be appointing a chairman at the meeting at Parochial Hall in Cheam at the end of the month.

The residents of Elizabeth House, Mickleham Gardens and Pond Hill Lane in Cheam, were furious after being sent a letter last month informing them of the decision to demolish their homes.

The council will now explore the feasibility of keeping the most vulnerable on site while the building work is taking place.

In an attempt to ward off any heated exchanges, like the ones seen at Elizabeth House following the eviction announcement last month, the Health and Well-being Overview and Scrutiny Committee has invited questions ahead of the regeneration review on Thursday September 11.

Unite services in one place

Senior Sutton residents want more affordable and accessible learning and leisure opportunities.

Speaking at a council-run consultation more than 200 older people also voiced the need for a single place to go when seeking support and be guided with a personal approach to finding the right service.

The event last month, held to consult on support and early intervention services for older people, also showed that many greatly value the availability of short term support in times of need, especially following bereavement or an illness.

Executive member for adult social services, Councillor Colin Stears said: "I'm delighted this consultation event has been successful in engaging older people."

"The positive feedback we've had shows we are delivering high quality services to Sutton's elderly."

Similar consultations will take place at Granfers Community Centre on August 21 and at Belsize Court on August 27.

Clear faith

The congregation of St Mary's Church in Wallington won national recognition this week for welcoming people who are both deaf and blind.

The Rev Justine Middlemiss and her parishioners were shortlisted for a community award by the Sense deaf-blind charity.

Congregation members were praised for regularly involving two deaf and blind churchgoers in events and learning communication signals.

Fraudster paid everything back

A benefit fraudster who conned her way to £7,452 has narrowly escaped a jail term.

Mary Sweeney, 62, of St Albans Grove, Carshalton, claimed the housing and council tax benefit on the basis she was retired and not working.

But Mrs Sweeney was caught when benefit officers found she was in fact working as a health care assistant at St Helier Hospital.

At Wallington Magistrates Court last week the magistrate told Mrs Sweeney that a custodial term had been considered due to the seriousness of the offence.

But as she had pleaded guilty at the first opportunity, was of previous good character and had repaid the money in full, she was sentenced to a 180-hour community rehabilitation order.

Sutton Council was awarded costs of £450.

Councillor John Drage, executive member for resources on Sutton Council, said: "Benefit fraud is a serious crime and we will use the full letter of the law to prosecute offenders and recover the money."

"Our team of investigators has an excellent track record in bringing fraudsters before the courts."

"There will be no let-up in their efforts to make sure that benefit money goes to genuine claimants."

If you think someone is claiming housing and council tax benefit they are not entitled to call the council's Investigation Team, in confidence, on 020 8770 5687 or go to the website sutton.gov.uk.

Alternatively call the National Benefit Fraud Hotline on 0800 328 6340 or textphone on 0800 328 6341.

Exclusion for tenants

by JULIA KENNARD

jkennard@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Sutton tenants' group has demanded an explanation after it was excluded from a Government review on how rent money is spent.

Sutton Federation of Tenant and Resident Association chair Jean Crossby said it was a "disgrace" that the group had missed out on national consultation into the Housing Revenue Account, despite being told it would be invited.

Miss Crossby said there were only three council tenants from across the country represented in the four working groups which included 60 or more selected stakeholders.

She has now submitted a letter to Housing Minister Caroline Flint complaining the process was "undemocratic".

The review, launched by Miss Flint and Yvette Cooper in March this year, aims to analyse the efficacy of the HRA which takes an average of £28 from a typical £76.46 week's rent and redistributes it to other authorities.

Miss Crossby said the money is not ploughed back into Sutton's housing, which meant that 50 per cent of the borough's 6,600 council homes are failing the decent home standard.

Jean Crossby: No consultation

She said: "If the HRA was not creating a shortfall in the amount allowed to management, maintenance and repairs our homes would not be failing the decent homes standard to the tune of £126 million.

"We have petitioned against this for some time so were absolutely dismayed at such a disgraceful form of consultation.

"The HRA review should be consulted in each borough, the consultation that has taken place so far is inadequate and not at all democratic."

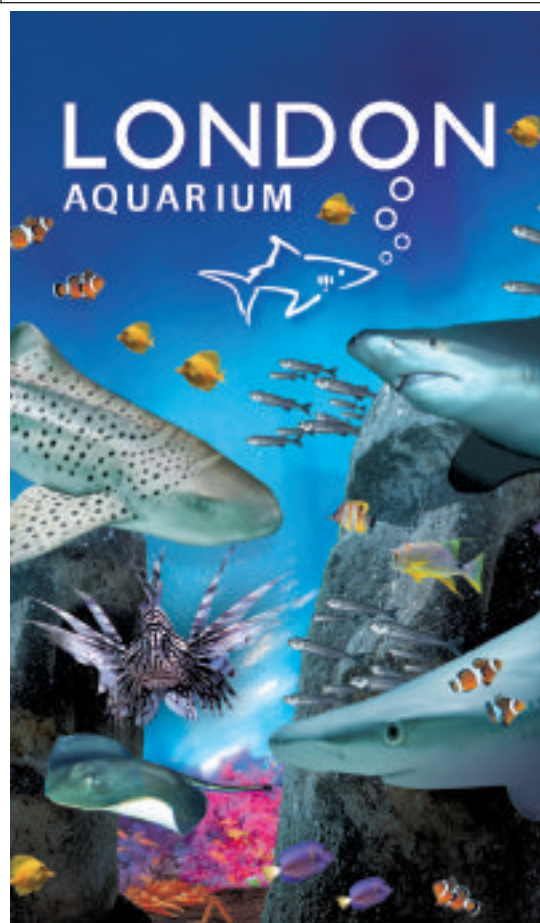

Local MP Paul Burstow said he called the minister's office after receiving a call from the Sutton Guardian. He said: "It is an outrage that Sutton's tenants are being denied their chance to have a say. The system of housing subsidy means that tenants pay a large part of their rent to the Government.

"Though we are only at the consultation stage, the fact that the Minister is having to be reminded of her promise over two months after she made it, does not bode well for the outcome."

A Communities and Local Government spokesman said: "We are committed to involving tenants in the review of council housing finance to find a way forward that is affordable and fair to all."

Melanie sheds 12 stone on her bike

Former couch potatoes have had their chips!

Everyone knows that doing exercise makes you fit, but it's only when you meet someone like school receptionist Melanie Troughton that you realise how effective it can be.

Melanie tipped the scales at more than 24 stone. Husband Paul had passed 18st, and their children were filling out as well.

"We were all into getting fit together, and we did it as a family," said Melanie, who succeeded in losing a boggling

Tim Harrison meets the Banstead couple who have transformed their lives by taking up cycling 12½st. Paul shed 4st, and the kids are now svelte, sprightly and fit too.

"I suppose it all started two and a half years ago when my father-in-law died," said Melanie, 38.

"He had been very unfit. We decided we needed to lose weight, so instead of getting in the car every time we had to drive a few minutes to the local shops, we began walking or cycling."

The Troughtons' lifestyle underwent a sea-change. Not only did they help the environment by using their car less, but out went sugary, fatty fried food, and in came grilled food, fresh fruit and veg.

"I saw she was serious, so I started too," said Paul, 46. "We really were couch potatoes. After Mel decided to go to the gym, she said to me: 'I'm not doing this on my own', so that was that! Now we're regulars at a gym in Ewell."

If Melanie needed a further boost to her willpower, it came during an outing to Chessington World of Adventures.

Paul, Melanie and daughters Sophia, 11, and Sara, 14, were in their seats, awaiting the start of a scary rollercoaster ride, but Melanie couldn't fasten her safety harness.

She pulled with all her might while the fairground man stood the other side, pushing. In the end, to her complete embarrassment, she had to squeeze out, waddle back down the ramp and watch as the ride left without her.

"I was grossly overweight," admitted Melanie. "I'd just get in the car to go anywhere. Our

On yer bike! Paul and Melanie Troughton have discovered that regular cycling has transformed their lives, after losing nearly 17 stones between them attitude now is: 'Why use the car when you can use the bike?' Now, if I haven't been walking or cycling during the day I really miss it!"

She gets the bike out to go to work or nip down to the shops, the girls walk to school, and the whole family regularly goes cycling to make healthier use of their leisure time.

Paul now cycles from the family home in Banstead to his work in Lower Morden – a 12-mile round trip – and says he feels recharged and invigorated after the exercise.

It has also boosted the family budget thanks to petrol savings, and reduced stress by allowing them to pedal serenely past lines of gridlocked vehicles.

Away on holiday in Devon last month, the thing they really missed was the bicycle feel-good factor. "It was funny; I really need that buzz," Melanie said. "I missed it so much."

Both Paul and Melanie advised anyone determined to get trim to choose a good bike shop.

"We went to a bike shop in Wallington, and they were so helpful," said Melanie.

"Now we're looking to do the London-Brighton ride next year."

Added Paul: "We've gone from one extreme to the other. After seeing me with Mel, people have even come up to me and quietly asked if I've got a new woman!"

Mel's top tips

- Instead of taking the car to the local shops, walk or cycle
- Get your friends and family involved – it's more fun that way.
- Steer clear of fried or fatty foods
- Make time for regular exercise, and consider joining a gym
- Steadily build up to longer distances on your bicycle

Fair-goers bathe in the sun and enjoy the music at last year's Environmental Fair, while others pick up bargains at the pottery stall

Hop on a free bus to go to the green fair

Give your Oyster card a rest! The bus to the Environmental Fair in Carshalton Park on Bank Holiday Monday is free.

Smarter Travel Sutton is again proud to be sponsoring the free bus from all around the borough on August 25.

And when you get there, don't miss the Smarter Travel Sutton interactive roadshow, highlighting the benefits of cycling, walking, public transport and car clubs.

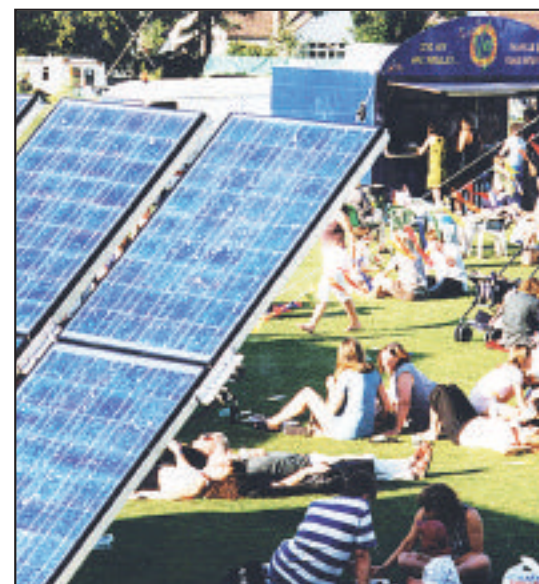

You can have fun speeding past traffic on the sustainable Scalextric, and sign the imovelondon pledge to reduce your car use and be entered into a prize draw to win a bike.

Personal travel experts will be on hand to advise you on which journeys you could make without a car, and explain how cycling, walking, public transport and car sharing can benefit the environment, improve your health and save you money.

Bikes are big at this year's fair, expected to attract 10,000 people. If you haven't been in the saddle for a while, sign up for free cycle training from the council's road safety team.

There is also music on three sound stages, and food ranging from Thai noodles to Greek salads.

So hop on the free bus on August 25. The fair in Carshalton Park, Ruskin Road, has more than 100 stalls and is open from 10.30am to 8pm. Adults £3, concessions £1, under 12s free. More information at smartertravelsutton.org

Out the cab: Transport for London boss Peter Hendy spent £1,500 on taxis in 2007 Deadlinepix EL19305

TfL: Taxi free-loader?

by ELEANOR HARDING

eleanor@london.newsquest.co.uk

London's transport boss spent over £1,500 on taxis last year while his passengers struggled into work on tubes, trains and buses.

Peter Hendy, commissioner for Transport for London (TfL) spent the equivalent of £29 per week of public money on taxis.

The Taxpayers' Alliance condemned the findings revealed this week through a Freedom of Information request by the Sutton Guardian.

Spokesman Corin Taylor said: "It speaks volumes about how good a job TfL are doing that their own executives are choosing to shun tubes and buses and make the taxpayer fork out for their taxis."

Mr Hendy spent more on taxis than all nine of his fellow chief officers put together, with three spending nothing at all.

As a whole, TfL staff claimed around £14,500 in expenses for taxis and this figure does not include costs paid in advance.

Most London transport organisations claimed less than £3,000, with London River Services claiming just £16.08.

Commuter Sarah Dawson, an NHS manager from Balham who uses the Northern Line every day, said: "It's outrageous. I work long hours and I have no choice but to use the Tubes and buses. I don't particularly feel safe at night."

"A taxi would be nice but as a public sector worker I feel it's wrong to use taxis and then claim it back on expenses."

Local transport campaigner Mark Clarke said: "It shows they are out of touch. If they can opt out of the Tubes they don't see the pain people go through. No wonder things don't get better."

A TfL spokesman said: "Company policy does allow for the use of taxis, for example London Underground staff may travel by taxi on very early or late finishing shifts because no other means of transport is available."

"Peter Hendy travels to and from work by public transport and on the vast majority of occasions while travelling the capital on business."

"He is overseeing the delivery of a 10-year £39billion budget to deliver the upgrade of the Tube, preparations for the 2012 Games and Crossrail and there are occasions when his full schedule and late hours necessitate the use of taxis."

What a load of rubbish: Waste pulled out of the River Wandle

Deadline: SU22474

Cleaning up Wandle

by JAMES PEPPER

jpepper@london.newsquest.co.uk

This mountain of rubbish was hauled from the banks of the River Wandle.

It was part of the Wandle Trust's community clean up of the river, where intrepid local volunteers try to rid the popular nature spot of any fly-tipped objects to improve the environment for birds, fish, insects and local people.

Every month a team of cleaners take on a section of the Wandle and last Sunday saw the volunteers knee deep in muck at the bottom of Buckhurst Avenue in Carshalton.

"The area is quite notorious for fly-tipping," said Wandle Trust Trustee Erica Evans. "This month we had a team of 37 volunteers who came down and helped out. We have pulled out some very odd items in the past, including a gun. "This month we pulled out the usual items - bikes, scooters, wooden pallets, clothes and even a motorbike. We also pulled out a supermarket trolley which is odd as we are miles from the nearest supermarket. Funnily enough, we started the clean up with only one wheelbarrow, by the end of the day we had pulled out half a dozen."

Residents have been quick to praise the work of volunteers, even though the eyesore heap has been sitting on the side of the road waiting for collection by the council for two weeks.

Martin Garad, who lives on Buckhurst Avenue, said he would have been happy to help if he knew what was happening. He said: "I didn't know what was going on, I just saw a huge pile of rubbish down the road and I wondered what was happening. If I had known they were cleaning the river, I would of been happy to help. I think it's great what they are doing, and if I'm free I will do my bit next time."

The next river clean up is Sunday, September 14, in Merton.

A class act

Sixteen youngsters have made it on to the stage after completing a week-long drama school at Robin Hood Primary School.

They spent the week working on basic acting skills, leading up to a final live show.

"We've had some great feedback," said course leader Chris Whyld. "They have all grown in confidence over the week and couldn't wait to come in everyday."

A weekly Saturday morning course will start in September, open to all 7 to 14 year-olds in the Sutton area. The classes, at Robin Hood Primary, will be open to all abilities. Contact Chris Whyld on 07793434811 or info@teacheract.co.uk

Road death due to sleep

by JAMIE HENDERSON

jhenderson@london.newsquest.co.uk

A nurse from Downview prison who died in a car crash because she collapsed at the wheel of her car may have suffered from narcolepsy, an inquest heard last week.

Joan Adelele, from Lancaster Road, Tulse Hill, was driving her maroon Nissan Micra home from work on April 23 this year when, according to eyewitness reports, her vehicle swerved across the road, mounted a central island and took off, flying straight into an oncoming white van.

The accident took place at the junction of Streatham Road and Garden Avenue in the Streatham Vale area.

The injuries sustained by the former prison nurse were so serious that she died at the scene. A post mortem revealed she had suffered a broken neck, fractures to her left thigh, chest, ribs and shoulder and chronic skull and spine damage.

No one else was seriously hurt in the crash and there was also no evidence pointing to excess speeding by either party involved.

According to friends, Mrs Adelele had a habit of falling asleep in social situations and it was not uncommon for her to nod off during lunches and evenings out.

A colleague who worked with the 64-year-old, Joanne Abraham, wrote a letter to the court describing the condition of Mrs Adelele when she went home on the day she died after feeling unwell.

She wrote: "Joan didn't seem her usual cheery self that morning. At about 11am I bumped into her and she said she felt terrible and may have taken the wrong tablet. I offered to drive her home but she walked off."

Mrs Adelele's family had a history of heart problems as her son died aged 40 and her brother also died of a heart condition.

Westminster coroner Dr Knapman said: "Is anyone to blame for this accident? I think the most likely explanation is that she nodded off. She had some problems with her heart which could well have caused her to collapse."

"Therefore, I shall record that she died from multiple injuries after she collapsed at the wheel and struck a central island."

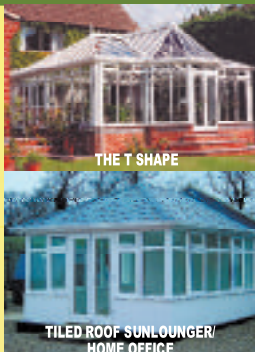

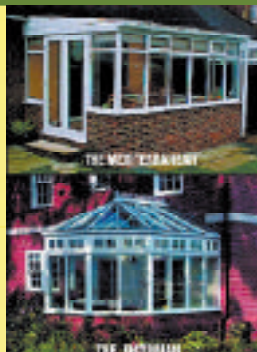

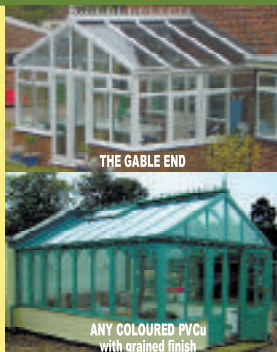

"This is categorised as accidental death and the sympathy of the court goes out to her friends and family."

Have an historic summer holiday

This summer, explore some of the greatest palaces ever built, as Historic Royal Palaces invites you to discover history where it happened

Why not make your visit to the palaces part of an exciting weekend break or a fun-packed day out to London?

With stunning architecture at every turn, endless shopping and world class theatre, you will never run out of things to do in this historic city.

After an action-packed day, how about sampling one of the city's 6,000 restaurants or staying at a relaxing hotel?

Tower of London

Meet the yeoman warders and hear their bloody tales; stand where famous heads rolled; be dazzled by the 23,578 gems that make up the crown jewels; marvel at the legendary ravens and get to know the characters who have passed through the tower and left their mark on almost 1,000 years of history.

Opening for the school holidays, the new fortress exhibit looks set to make your visit more action-packed than ever.

Pace the battlements, handle crossbows and explore the tower's history as a formidable royal fortress.

New areas to explore and innovative exhibitions are waiting to be discovered, along with life-sized medieval siege machines in the tower moat, where your little soldiers can try out firing for themselves.

Special events include:

- Until August 31 – Masters of the Sword. As the Wars of the Roses rage, discover the skills, armour and weapons needed to make sure knights and soldiers keep their heads!

- Daily, with new expanded displays – Hands on History. This is your chance to lift a musket, draw a bow, and handle a sword as you explore the different roles of the tower over the centuries.

Hampton Court Palace

Crowned the UK's top heritage day out, Hampton Court Palace was once the playground of King Henry VIII, and with so much to see and do, now it can be yours.

Experience real food smells and roaring fires in the vast Tudor kitchens, follow the family fun trails and let off steam in the beautiful gardens.

Discover a slim, handsome Henry in the Young Henry VIII exhibition, explore the state rooms (including the infamous Haunted Gallery), and try not to get lost in the world-famous maze!

With so much to do throughout the summer, bring the whole family for a fun-filled day they will never forget.

Special events include:

- August 23-25 – Tudor cookery. See what foods tickled the Tudor's taste buds?

- Daily, (closes August 26) – The Other Boleyn Girl dress exhibition.

Kensington Palace

This summer, discover the glamorous and alluring world of The Last Debutantes at Kensington Palace.

See beautiful gowns, learn what it meant to be a 'deb' and explore the spirit of a world in transition in this exciting new multi-media exhibition.

Visit the state apartments, discover a history of stylish royal inhabitants and look out for special events including a summer theatre season.

There is a wide range of special events at the royal palaces this summer. For more information on what to see and do visit hrp.org.uk

All fall down: A tree fell over in Carshalton Road last Wednesday

Deadlinepix SU22473

Parking is going fine

by JULIA KENNARD

jkennard@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton drivers have earned the lowest number of penalty charge notices for illegal parking in the whole of London's boroughs.

Figures released last week from think-tank and lobbying organisation London Councils show there were 37,007 issued between April 1 2007 and March 31 2008 compared to 36,321 in the previous year.

By comparison Westminster issued 824,687 notices this year and Camden issued 529,874.

The results also revealed that appeals against penalty charge notices handed out in Sutton have dropped by almost two-thirds since 2005 while complaints have more than halved in the last three years.

Last week Sutton council heralded the figures as evidence of its "common-sense three-pronged approach" to parking enforcement in recent years.

Deputy leader of Sutton Council Ruth Dombey said the strategy included no financial targets for the number of tickets issued, regular feedback from residents and a high standard of staff training.

She said: "We have an agreement with National Car Parks (NCP) to have no targets, which means officers are under less pressure.

"Parking officers are also trained to a high standard to deal with enforcement matters and can exercise discretion.

"A parking users' panel also meets regularly to discuss parking issues and allow residents and motorists to give feedback."

Executive member for resources John Drage said the approach had led to the drop in appeals and complaints.

He said: "Parking enforcement is one of the most high profile and contentious services that councils provide.

"It can be a rod for our own backs if not delivered fairly and sensibly and in recent years Sutton Council has made a concerted effort to develop a common sense approach.

"However, we still do not hesitate to ticket those motorists who flout the law and cause a danger to other road users and pedestrians."

A total of 178 appeals were lodged with the Parking and Traffic Appeals Service last year, down from 522 in 2005.

The council won 60 per cent of appeal hearings last year, double the London average of 30 per cent.

A tree crashed onto a busy Carshalton road forcing motorists to find alternative routes while council officers worked to remove the debris.

Police communications officer Colin

Walden said it was unknown what had caused the tree to fall at 2pm between Harrow Road and Carshalton Road, near The Windsor Castle Pub last Wednesday.

Three police cars were called to the scene to divert traffic and investigators would be looking into the cause.

He said: "It's a huge tree and will need to be chopped up before it can be taken away.

"It's lucky that no one has been injured."

Top Tip

Green and living roofs partially or completely covered with vegetation and soil, are increasingly used on sheds, garages and even houses.

They're a great way to encourage biodiversity, reduce the impact of run-off on water drainage systems and improve air quality. To find out more see livingroofs.org

The Big Picture

A number of UK bird species are laying eggs significantly earlier than they were 40 years ago, a report reveals.

A conservation coalition's report says some finches, robins and tits are all laying earlier and puts this down to warming caused by climate change.

Overall, numbers of farmland birds remain about half of what they were in the 1970s, while wintering populations of water birds have risen considerably.

Environmental fair is on hand to turn borough even greener

by JAMES PEPPER

jpepper@london.newsquest.co.uk

Bank holiday Monday sees the return of one of London's biggest environmental events - Carshalton Environmental Fair.

The fair is organised by local charity, EcoLocal with a team of dedicated volunteers and will be held at Carshalton Park, Ruskin Road from 10.30am to 8pm.

There will be three stages of live music throughout the day featuring some of the county's up and coming stars, as well as some old favourites.

And this year the theme is "Sutton - creating a sustainable borough".

The Music Cafe stage will be powered by wind and solar power and the main stage will be powered by bio fuels. "And not the kind that people moan about - the good kind," said Tansy Wenham-Prosser of organisers EcoLocal.

"The bio fuels used are directly from old chip fat oil so the event is unlike any other. There will be stalls that will inform people about how to make their households greener, even the children are getting involved as one of the children's activities will be how they can grow their own food.

"There will be nature conservation and waste management stalls, as well as fair trade stalls - there really will be something for everyone. The caterers this year will be providing cutlery and crockery that is entirely bio degradable, so everyone is doing their bit."

The fair boasts a wide range of superb caterers - Thai, Indian, Greek, French, Creole and award-winning ice cream, plus a bar and cafe.

Promoting Sutton's sustainable local food and its organisations such as the Surrey Organic Gardening Group, VegZED - a local fruit and veg box

Join the throng: The crowds at last year's Carshalton Environmental Fair scheme, and stalls from the Wallington Farmers' market is a big part of the day.

There will be over 130 stalls to browse through selling crafts, promoting local projects and providing lots of environmental information.

In the children's zone, there will be face painting, games, craft, quizzes, story-telling and puppet shows and the "go ride" cycling skills challenge in the tennis courts.

A free bus service, sponsored by Smarter Travel Sutton, operates across the borough on the bank holiday taking you right to the park gate.

Timetables are available in local libraries or see ecolocal.org.uk. Free bicycle parking is available on site.

Entrance is free for children under 12, costs £3 for adults, and £1 for under 16 and concessions. Gates open at 10.30am and the event ends at 8pm.

See leisure page page 67.

Renewal in wake of tsunami

A charity has taken the borough's green energy message to an area torn apart by the 2004 tsunami.

The latest project from Child Aid Lanka, based in Cheam, has funded the installation of renewable energy units to disadvantaged children in Sri Lanka.

The beneficiaries of the project are the boys' home in Thirukkivil, which was destroyed by the 2004 tsunami but has now been restored to an environmentally friendly standard.

The charity provided solar panels for the supply of electricity to the study hall, computer centre and dormitory.

They are now trying to raise further funds to power water pumps for clean drinking water, as well as for a weaving and skills centre.

"There are other similar institutions caring for orphaned and disadvantaged children where there is no power from the main national grid, and where they cannot afford the cost of electricity in the poor rural parts of the island," said Child Aid Lanka president Naomi Aruliah.

"Providing electricity not only supplied vital lighting for their daily studies, but also enables the use of computers, internet access, and educational television.

"This opens their eyes and minds to the world outside, and provides opportunities against the background of the destructive civil war raging in the island."

GREEN CITY: This summer, Greater London celebrates 21 years of green farming which has seen local farmers make a huge difference to wildlife and the landscape.

The agri-environment schemes, which will be given nearly £3billion over the next five years, have seen an increase in access to the countryside, more wildlife and biodiversity, and greater maintenance of essential features of the British countryside such as stone walls and hedgerows.

Greater London has 37 agri-environment schemes covering approximately 1,417 hectares.

VACANT ALLOTMENTS: Last weeks National Allotment Week saw almost 200 extra people in Sutton enjoying the luxury of an allotment.

The mayor of Sutton marked the beginning of the week-long celebration of growing your own, at the Stanley Road allotment open day.

This year's National Allotment Week celebrated a century since the 1908 Small Holdings and Allotment Act.

Today, the humble allotment is experiencing a revival. Sutton is home to 2,300 plots across 36 sites varying in size from as small as the 15 at the Warren to more than 200 at Stanley Road.

There are currently only 112 vacant plots, spread across seven sites in the borough, down from 677 in 2003.

Q & A

Each week we will ask a question on a green-related subject.

This week's question: How long could you run an energy efficient light bulb for by recycling just one aluminium can?

Last week's answer: Turning off the tap when you brush your teeth can save 20 litres of water per day.

The boys' home in Thirukkivil, Sri Lanka, is now solar powered

MORRISONS

Give them their credit

It's about time that Samantha Jones, our latest executive of Epsom and St Helier hospitals was given credit for the great improvements to hospital hygiene and for getting the hospital's finances back on track.

For too long previous authorities have used the NHS as a cash machine with no one to keep check on the spending. Too many fingers in too many pies eroding the NHS' monies.

We all knew that the Better Healthcare Closer to Home scheme was a non-starter. If it were not for Samantha Jones and her diligence in weeding out the flotsam and surrounding herself with supportive staff on the committee, our hospital (Epsom) would be no more.

Having attended many meetings over the past ten years and being concerned with spending on consultations, it is a pity the article highlighting the anomalies was not printed earlier.

We should also give credit to our MP Chris Grayling, who has been pivotal in supporting the Epsom Hospital. We should indeed know where the millions have been spent and the doubtful recipients should be made to pay back what they were not entitled to.

I'm with you

I refer to the letter, "Request in Installments" by Mr M O'Connor and support his views.

It's ludicrous the trust considers £450 too much to find out the money wasted and I would willingly help Mr Martin obtain the information in Installments. We must not allow the cover-up.

MARTIN SMITH

We must control ragwort

Many supporters have contacted us recently to voice their concerns about ragwort, which is blooming at the moment.

As every horse owner and farmer knows, ragwort contains toxins which can have debilitating or fatal consequences if eaten by horses and other grazing animals.

Ragwort has its place in the countryside; it supports a wide variety of invertebrates and is a major nectar source for many insects, but it must be controlled, especially where there are horses and livestock. Land stewardship and animal husbandry are both huge responsibilities and I know that they are taken seriously by farmers, but it is important that the dangers posed by ragwort reach the widest possible audience.

There is a growing concern

A special thank you for all your effort Mr Sadler

On behalf of all the residents that rely on the services provided by Epsom Hospital

I would like to say a very special thank you to Mike Sadler for all his efforts as a non-executive director on the board of the Epsom and St Helier NHS Trust.

I would also like to thank Mr Sadler for sharing his resignation letter to John Davey, the chairman of the board, with the readers of the Epsom Guardian. To date this has only been available on the internet. I would like to suggest that the Guardian print the full resignation letter so that all the Epsom Guardian readers are able to understand the reasons for the resignation.

From Mr Sadler's letter it would appear that the board have not been allowed access to the detail of the Denbies' proposal. This means they have been unable to discuss and investigate the fine detail of the proposal. How outrageous that the board has been silenced by the chairman and chief executive. If this is correct the situation is totally unsatisfactory. What are the other board members doing allowing this to happen. It would appear that the board is totally ineffectual.

At the present time, a study is being undertaken into women's and children's services.

The present maternity services at Epsom Hospital are already disappearing, without our knowledge, before the study is complete. I hope I am wrong but I understand expectant mothers requiring a caesarean will have to have this procedure carried out at St Helier in the near future. This is completely unsatisfactory for mothers who presently rely on Epsom Hospital.

The time has come for Mr Davy and his board to accept, without delaying tactics, the generous offer made by the Denbies Trust.

If only praise were given as fast as treatment

I thought I needed to write to you as people are always quick to complain but not so quick to praise.

I recently went to my local doctors, Bourne Hall Health Centre with a pain in my lower leg. My doctor was concerned and immediately sent me to the CAU department at Epsom Hospital with suspected DVT.

I arrived at the department at 5pm and when they established who I was I was taken into a room with a nurse who was very caring and friendly. She took blood for tests and monitored my heart and noted all the necessary information.

I was asked to wait for the blood-test results which took less than an hour with the nurse keeping a eye on me and asking if I needed water or anything else. The results came back, but I still needed to come back the next day for a scan on my leg. I was given all the necessary medication, prescriptions etc in case the scan showed anything and got an appointment for a scan the following day.

I arrived the next day, went to the x-ray department and waited about two minutes before being taken in. I had my scan and waited for them to type up a report for the consultants.

I went back to the CAU department and saw the consultant straight away, thankfully all was ok and I did not have DVT. When I left the hospital I had been twenty minutes from the time I walked in to the time I walked out.

It goes to show if it is necessary the National Health Service is still great.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone involved from the doctor to the staff at the hospital. I also hadn't realised DVT was as serious as it is.

Don't let us down on street cleaning

I was interested to read the letter from C A Woodward of Ewell Village on street cleaning.

My husband also has to sweep the pavement and gutter in front of the house and I have been corresponding with our local councillor about it. Replying to my concerns, she writes: "As you quite rightly say, 'what is needed is a man with a brush along the pavements.' However, the street-cleaning carried out via Epsom and Ewell is better described as litter picking.

"Unfortunately, health and safety legislation has ensured that employers have a duty of care ensuring people are not injured whilst working, so no one can spend hours with a broom or bending to pick up litter."

Except we notice other boroughs have street cleaners with brooms and a cart.

One of the council's priorities is to "enhance the visual appearance of the local environment". Come on then, don't let us down on street cleaning.

Council dismayed by NHS review

People following the shenanigans of the NHS review for Epsom General Hospital will not be surprised at Mike Sadler's resignation.

It is symptomatic of the lethargy that the Epsom and St Helier NHS Trust, under the chairmanship of John Davey, has been operating under for the last year or so.

On behalf of the council, I want to express our dismay that the reasons given for Mike Sadler's resignation confirm our fears about the review process.

There are serious concerns about how the board presents facts regarding the future of the hospital to the elected board members.

The council has called the process into question several times and after this disturbing announcement will renew its efforts to achieve the best for our residents.

TfL spends thousands on cabs while we struggle on public transport

London's transport boss spent over £1,500 on taxis last year while his passengers struggled into work on tubes, trains and buses.

"This really is bad news. Please can we stop the greed?"

CR2, Croydon

"This is really a good news story. TfL only spends an average of £29 a week on taxi fares for the Commissioner. Which means he must be using public transport for the majority of his travel. Well done TfL."

jb1, Kingston

"Peter Hendy earns a basic salary of £320,000 a year. By my very rough calculations that means he costs us around £184 an hour. If he needs to get a cab so that his time and our money is better spent, that's fine by me. £29 a week on cabs isn't much in the context of 15 minutes of his time costing £46 in salary alone. Most executives at his level have a full-time car and driver."

Robins and Day launches special limited edition

Robins and Day customers in Morden are being given the opportunity to own a limited edition version of one of Peugeot's most popular cars, as the dealership showcases the striking 207 Monaco.

Building on the success of the iconic 207 hatchback, the highly desirable Monaco has been developed exclusively for the Robins and Day network, and offers high specification for an affordable price, with a bespoke black and red interior leather trim to give the ultimate feeling of luxury.

As Peugeot's largest dealership group, Robins and Day has commissioned this eye-catching new model, which will only be available from one of its 38 dealerships that are located across the UK, including the Robins and Day dealership in Morden Road.

Available in a choice of four exterior colours, Thorium Grey, Flamenco Red, Onyx Black or Aluminium, this sophisticated car gives drivers a feeling of style; with black leather seats featuring carbon fibre effect inserts and red cross-stitching, along with matching leather gearstick gaiter and door inserts.

The car bears the exclusive Monaco badge and Robins and Day customers will be given co-ordinating carpet mats, as well as the option of metallic paint and alloy wheels.

Starting at £9,742 on the road, the 207 Monaco provides exclusive luxury at an affordable cost and is the lowest priced car currently available in the UK to come with a full leather trim.

Other specifications include fog lights, six airbags, remote central locking, ABS and electric front windows.

Featuring a fully adjustable driving position, impressive power steering and a slick gear change, this model has an impressive 1.4 8v petrol engine and provides an excellent driving experience.

James Weston, dealer principal at Robins and Day Morden comments: "The 207 Monaco is exclusive to Robins and Day and we are receiving a lot of interest from customers who are keen to get their hands on one of these limited edition versions of Peugeot's popular 207."

"With all four colour options now on display, visitors to our dealership can view this luxury new model, and find out about the great finance offers available, with monthly payments starting from less than £190 a month on our Passport deal."

Robins and Day Morden is also celebrating the arrival of the limited edition 207 Ceilo and 207 Coupé Cabriolet ELLE, which have been launched by Peugeot just in time for summer.

To arrange a test drive or for further details on the 207 Monaco, please contact Robins and Day Morden in Morden Road or call 0845 373 3249.

Mercedes CLS Range

Baroque and roll star

Is this a coupe with four doors or a saloon with a swoopy roof? Even Mercedes don't seem too sure. Andy Enright reports on the latest Mercedes CLS

The Mercedes CLS is a highly distinctive proposition. Extremely refined and silky smooth on the road, it also injects a touch of spice with livelier handling than the E-Class. Pick the right power option and running costs are more manageable than you'd think.

Conventional wisdom dictates that a coupe has two doors, occasionally three if you count a hatchback rear. A quartet of doors is the one attribute that generally precludes entry to the coupe club. Possessed of four doors, you are usually a saloon. Saloons, as we all know, are often a bit staid, driven by middle management the world over. The Mercedes CLS breaks that particular mould with its coupe-like lines and superb finish. It also has four doors.

Walk around a CLS and – if you're a student of automotive design – you may well feel a gnawing sense of unease. What is it about this car that's so unusual? After a while the realisation dawns that the CLS just plain doesn't seem like a German car. History has taught us that German cars feature clean, pragmatic styling. Even the more successful German designs, such as Audi's TT, have a pared-down industrial hygiene about them. The CLS is different insofar that it is unashamedly Baroque.

Three petrol engines are offered to UK customers. The smallest petrol powerplant is no slouch, being a 292bhp 3.5-litre V6 with piezo-electric direct injection and a spray-guided combustion system. It will get the CLS 350 to 60mph in under 7 seconds and run to 155mph. If you've got a little more money, you may be tempted by the 388bhp V8-engined CLS 500. Here, you get a couple of extra cylinders offering a fraction better refinement and acceleration. Best go for the 514bhp CLS 63 AMG version, a car destined to star in its fair share of rap music videos. The sole diesel option is also the cheapest CLS. The 224bhp 320 CDI which can hit 60mph in 7s and produces 500Nm feels quicker than the 350.

The 'four-door coupe' billing of the CLS leads us to expect a degree of agility and athleticism beyond that of Mercedes saloons such as the E-Class. The car cossets its driver and passengers while thrilling them with its majestic performance.

It's difficult to take in all of the details of the CLS styling at one go. The big L-shaped front lights mark a welcome departure from the gawky 'peanut' headlamps seen on so many contemporary Benzes. Even the door handles look like something from an Art Deco design exhibition. The latest revisions include a revised radiator grille, LED taillights and shapelier mirrors.

Inside, the surprises continue. A vast plank of wood runs across the dashboard, punctuated by the ventilation controls and a deeply sunken instrument binnacle. Mercedes has kept the cabin fresh by introducing a revised three spoke steering wheel and white-faced instrument dials. Chestnut wood inserts improve the perception of quality and uprated infotainment systems also feature.

It's easy to forget that there's an additional set of doors at the back, despite Mercedes not adopting Alfa Romeo's clever hidden handle feature. Once opened, taller passengers will have to watch their heads as they climb in, but the legroom isn't bad at all. Meanwhile, headroom in the back is far from problematic.

In order to get a handle on the value proposition of the Mercedes CLS, it helps to put it up against some rivals. This is no easy task, as the CLS is out on a limb when it comes to comparisons. Nothing else measures up against it, from the BMW 6 Series (not enough doors) to the Audi A8 (too bulky). It's not even particularly valuable to highlight quite how much the CLS costs when compared to an equivalent Mercedes E-Class, as most CLS customers want That Shape and are prepared to pay a premium to get it.

The desirability of the CLS should help it perform strongly on the used market. Servicing is not cheap however, and the car's coupe status hardly encourages generosity from the insurance industry.

Marketers would dub the Mercedes-Benz CLS a 'high involvement' car. It's possible to form an emotional bond, attracted by its exotic styling and unconventional attitude. What's not in doubt is that the CLS remains a ground-breaking car for Mercedes and the market as a whole.

It wasn't long ago that Lexus really didn't have to be sporty. The brand could leave that kind of thing to rival German marques and concentrate on delivering sheer, undiluted luxury.

No longer. The Japanese are beginning to want to challenge the Teutonic marques at their own game.

The IS250 SR is a carefully targeted addition to the IS range that expresses its performance credentials with a full body kit and 17-inch 10-spoke alloy wheels on the outside. Aluminium scuff plates and pedals add subtle visual enhancements on the inside. Heated front seats are also fitted as standard. In total, this model is packed with features that have a combined customer value of more than £3,500, yet the price tag (£24,990 for the manual and £25,800 for the automatic) is less than £1,000 greater than that being demanded for a standard entry-level IS 250 variant.

Key standard features include 10 airbags, climate control, cruise control, smart keyless entry and engine start and sequenced LED interior lighting. The car's already powerful lines are enhanced with deep skirts to the front, rear and sides and a rear spoiler.

Owners who want an even more sporty statement can specify five-spoke 18-inch Tsuki rims. Three exterior colours are available: Velvet Black and Cadoxton Slate and Argento Ice metallic finishes. All are matched to Worcester Black interior fabric trim.

The Lexus V6 engine certainly isn't this car's weakest link. Although 204bhp isn't a huge amount of power for an engine of this ilk, the power delivery is smooth and creamy and works very well when mated to an automatic gearbox. The manual car betrays a very slight hole in low-down torque that can prove slightly annoying when pulling out of junctions. The fact that the peak torque figure is reached at a relatively high 4,800rpm demonstrates that this is an engine that likes to register a few revs on the board.

Once you've got it dialled in, the IS250 shows a fair turn of speed. It'll make 60mph from rest in 8.1 seconds and run on to 146mph. Fuel economy is so-so, with real world users probably ekeing around 22 or 23 miles from a gallon of 95RON.

Plus, an emissions rating of 231g/km isn't a standout figure from a manufacturer of eco-friendly hybrid vehicles.

Check out the specs of rival German models and it's clear that none can offer a comparably equipped package at the £30,000 price point. Overall though, this is one of those cars you really have to drive to appreciate. Not because it's the sharpest steer in the class but because at the end of the day, you may well conclude that on most roads, most of the time, the balance between comfort and sportiness of an IS 250 is one that works better.

You can try out the IS250 SR at Lexus Croydon, 604 Purley Way (A23), Croydon CR0 4RF or telephone 020 8649 5980 for more information.

Land Rover Range Rover Sport

Extreme sport

You could hear it a long time before you could see it. The distinctive throb of a V8 engine pulling hard from low revs metamorphosed into a harder edged yowl as a dazzling set of driving lights crested the rise to the Karussell at Germany's Nurburgring race track.

The vehicle may have been plastered with duct tape to disguise its detailing but it was obvious by the car's poise through the corner and the giveaway lower roof line that this was no ordinary Range Rover. It was some time later that we realised what we'd been watching that chilly September morning had been a Range Rover Sport.

Perhaps the adventurous 'Range Stormer' concept vehicle that was first aired at the 2004 Detroit Motor Show had primed us for something a little more extreme in its execution. Park the Range Rover Sport side by side with the larger Range Rover flagship, however, and the changes become a good deal more obvious. As well as the lower roof, the wheel-base is also a good deal shorter, giving the Sport a far more pugnacious look than the majestic Range Rover.

The steering rack was replaced by a quicker item, offering more road feedback and quicker responses. To help cut the pitch and roll that quick changes of direction tend to generate, Land Rover also upgraded the springs and dampers and lowered the car's roll centre. Perhaps the most innovative feature of the Sport's underpinnings is Dynamic Response, a set of anti roll bars that can be engaged or decoupled according to demand. Standard on the flagship supercharged model and an option on the other models in the range, Dynamic Response also decouples when off roading in order to allow greater wheel articulation.

The engines are worth examining. Naturally the one that has garnered the most column inches is the 4.2-litre supercharged V8. In case it's already popped a lightbulb in your head, the engine is based on the Jaguar AJ-V8 unit although it has been adapted for use in a Land Rover product. This involved waterproofing, adjusting the engine's torque response and fitting additional oil baffles to allow it to operate reliably at unusually steep angles. With 390bhp on tap, this is a very serious piece of engineering and will generate 410lb/ft of torque. It's enough to propel the Range Rover Sport through 60mph in 6.8 seconds and on to a top speed of 140mph.

Two other engines are also offered, both diesels. There's the biggest seller of the range, an entry-level 190bhp TDV6 common rail turbodiesel, again of Jaguar origin. Alternatively, the top diesel unit is the potent 272bhp TDV8. Trim levels on the TDV6 range from S through SE and HSE, with only the top HSE trim offered on the TDV8 and the supercharged V8 petrol engine.

The attractive interior of the Range Rover Sport is a little more conventional than the Discovery3, with many of the controls angled towards the driver. Although rear seat space isn't the greatest, the payoff is the biggest boot in its class. An aluminium hatch with separately opening rear window glass is a neat finishing touch. At launch, Land Rover were bullish about the Range Rover Sport's prospects and they had every right to be as sales have exceeded expectations.

See the Range Rover Sport Range at Harwoods Land Rover; at Smitham Garage, Brighton Road, Coulsdon CR5 3EA. Call 01737 552020 to arrange your test drive of this world class 4x4.

Mitsubishi Shogun Range

Shogun dynasty

The Mitsubishi Shogun offers the best compromise between on-road refinement and off-road ability that you will find anywhere. Certainly, the Shogun is a more than competent tool in the rough stuff. It uses an AWC all-wheel control system, which works in tandem with Mitsubishi's Super Select 4 II transfer case. Using a centre differential lock to split available torque 33:67 front to rear, this system offers no fewer than four transmission modes; high range rear wheel drive, high-range full time four wheel drive, four-wheel drive with a locked centre differential for slippery conditions and low range four wheel drive with the locked differential for hauling yourself out of a mud bath.

On road owners will appreciate the added urge of the 3,200cc common-rail diesel that's now good for 168bhp in manual form. Where this engine really scores is in offering 381Nm of torque at 2,000rpm and it's quieter across the rev range as well. To give an idea of how quick off the mark this car is, a long wheelbase manual will accelerate to 60mph in 12.1 seconds and hit a top speed of 110mph.

Three door short or five-door long wheelbase models are offered. Chassis rigidity has been improved by increasing the number of key spot welds on the monocoque, additional structural adhesives and a greater use of high tensile steel, while there has also been an increase in the amount of anti-corrosive zinc plating.

It's properly big too, at least in long wheel base guise. This is 4.9m long, 1.9m wide and 1.9m high, so you'll need a garage with a fair amount of headroom, especially if you fit a roof box for ski trips. Mitsubishi's innovative 'Hide & Seat' system quickly converts the long wheelbase car from a five to a seven-seater, with two seats that fold from a flat boot floor to create a third row complete with integrated head rests.

As well as the option of three or five doors, Shogun buyers have the choice of a four model line-up – the familiar Equippe, Warrior and Elegance variants as well as a new luxury Diamond range-topper. As always, the Shogun comes packed with an array of standard safety and luxury equipment. All models come with ASTC active stability and traction control, alarm and keyless entry, climate control, twin front, side and curtain airbags, ABS anti-lock brakes backed up by EBD electronic brakeforce distribution and 17inch alloy wheels fitted as standard.

The list of standard features may be much longer but pricing for the Shogun remains tight, emphasising Mitsubishi Motors value-for-money policy. Prices range from £22,649 for the three-door Equippe model through to £34,699 for the five-door Diamond variant.

To be part of Blue Lion, a Peugeot has to have CO₂ emissions of less than 130g/km and be 95% recyclable at the end of its life. The 107 Urban 1.0 5 door, 207 Sport HDi 70 and 308 Sport HDi 90 well and truly earn Blue Lion approval with CO₂ emissions of 109g/km, 117g/km and 120g/km respectively. So, not only do these Peugeots have low emissions but your road tax is only £35. And, to lower the cost of motoring even further, Peugeot have some very special offers available on Blue Lion. Don't miss out on these fantastic cars, contact us today.

Citroen C1 Vibe

Going with the right vibe

This is getting difficult to keep up with. Citroen's C3 fits the established supermini mould pretty well, so when the French company launched the smaller C2, we figured it was a citycar.

The unveiling of the C1 has thrown the classifications into disarray. A true citycar, the C1 Vibe we look at here, looks set to sell by the shipload.

Citroen has been regaining its reputation for bold and exciting interiors of late and the C1 continues that trend. The first impression when looking at the virtually symmetrical fascia is that this must have been a vehicle that was very cost effective to convert to right-hand drive but the design is neat and ergonomically sound. Headroom inside the car isn't at all bad, even for someone well over six feet tall and the big glass area up front gives an airy feel to the cabin. The rear of the three-door car is notably more claustrophobic and is really only suitable for kids and short journeys. Rear knee room in the five door car is little better but at least the car's beltline is a little lower, making it feel a little less hemmed in.

Citroen has learned a whole bunch of lessons from its experience of MPV-style vehicles and the C1 Vibe offers no fewer than twelve storage compartments dotted about the centre console, dashboard and doors, with the door bins easily capable of holding an A4-sized atlas. Total luggage room with the rear seats in place is quoted at 139-litres, but drop the rear seats and there's an impressive 751 litres of space. This makes the C1 a car that can do more than just a light shop. Parking at the supermarket for the weekly mission isn't going to present too many difficulties. At just 1.6m wide, the C1 will easily be able to take advantage of those awkward spaces next to the concrete columns that are so often rejected. What's more, at just 3.4m long, you'll be able to access the tailgate while still tucked safely into your bay, away from errant trolleys and distracted drivers.

The entry-level 1.0-litre Vibe variant is offered in three-door form at £7,395 or in five-door form at £7,755 with a 68bhp 1.0i petrol engine. As might well be expected, the unit is EuroIV-compliant and returns over 60mpg on the combined fuel economy cycle. Even in town, you'll be hard pressed to nudge below forty. A five speed manual gearbox is also fitted as standard.

Safe, stylish and offering sparkling value for money, the C1 Vibe ticks all of the citycar boxes. It is in a tough corner of the market, but it's difficult to see how Citroen won't have a winner on its hands with this one.

You can see the Citroen C1 Vibe for yourself at Bollingmores Ashford. You can find them at 404 Staines Road West, Middlesex, TW15 1RZ or telephone 01784 246289 for more information

Dental Care by SimplyBright ...

ADVERTISEMENT

Where our reputation is in your smile!

Reports on a dental clinic which has transformed the approach of anxious patients to visiting the dentist.

Simply Bright dental practice has one main aim- to provide you with possibly the very best and most comfortable dental experience in the industry.

The brand new surgery, with its contemporary interior, was opened 8 months ago by the husband and wife team Dr Achal Prashad and Dr Deepa Prashad. Since then their dental team has been inundated with clients keen to learn about their friendly and welcoming approach to dentistry. "The surgery has been doing extremely well, and we are going from strength to strength," Achal told me. "We are all extremely happy that our original goal of changing people's perceptions about going to the dentist has been successful, and has far exceeded their expectations."

"We have proved that dentistry can be a pleasant and painless experience, in addition to being affordable."

Simply Bright offers a wide array of dental treatments, ranging from simple check ups and cleaning to specialist smile makeovers, teeth whitening and full mouth reconstructions. Dr Deepa Prashad is licensed to provide Invisalign treatments, which is a new form of clear brace treatment not involving any metal brackets or wires normally associated with braces.

Dr Akil Gulamali the third member of the team and our resident Saturday dentist, is currently a Specialist Registrar at the Eastman Dental Institute of Clinical Excellence, and undertakes all specialist complex cases, including the placement and restoration of dental Implants.

As well as the commendable team, Simply Bright has invested in state of the art equipment for its patients. Digital x rays reduce radiation to patients by up to 30%, intra oral cameras can show patients problems in the mouth to help explain treatments and also help as an educational tool. It is also an invaluable tool for diagnosing Oral cancer, which has an ever increasing mortality in the UK.

The surgery is fully DDA compliant for its disabled patients and has been designed to create a clean, hygienic and safe environment. The calm lighting, audiovisual entertainment and friendly, approachable staff will create an incredible experience that far exceeds your expectations.

An endless stream of happy customers has meant that the surgery has received lots of positive feedback from clients. Some of the testimonials that Achal and Deepa have received include the following:

■ "I visited your surgery twice this week and was very impressed by the professionalism and the welcome I received. I have not changed my dentist for 20 years and was some what nervous visiting a new one. I was made to feel totally at ease at your surgery and am very happy with the treatment I received with the minimal amount of pain."- Miss Sarah Browne, Colliers Wood.

■ "Since I first came to Simply Bright dental practice, I have always felt at ease. Everyone is really friendly and I have been more than happy with the quality of treatment that I have received. The surgery is always spotless, and the atmosphere relaxing... I wouldn't go anywhere else. I would highly recommend Simply Bright to anyone."- Mr Langdridge, Croydon.

"Having had many bad experiences at old unhygienic dental surgeries, I was cynical about trying another surgery. To my surprise and joy, Simply Bright surpassed my expectations. Friendly staff, beautiful premises, very clean clinical surgeries and excellent dentistry. Simply Bright is an asset to Colliers Wood I would recommend them to anyone" Mr Vikas Patel, Tooting.

Here at Simply Bright, "our reputation is in your smile". Our aim is to provide high quality dental care for you and your family in a state of the art, friendly and relaxing environment and at very reasonable prices...

Motability

yourlocalguardian.co.uk
motors@london.newsquest.co.uk

ADVERTISEMENT

What is Motability?

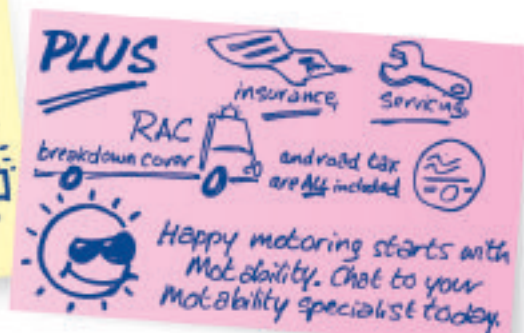

Motability is a national charity that was set up in 1977 to provide disabled people with mobility in the form of cars, powered wheelchairs and scooters. Today the scheme is responsible for 5% of all cars, wheelchairs and scooters sold in the UK through a national network of over 3,800 Motability dealers. So how does this highly popular service work?

Here we concentrate on cars, although the process is similar if you choose to finance a powered wheelchair or scooter through the scheme.

If you receive the Higher Rate Mobility Component of the Disability Living Allowance or the 'War Pensioners' Mobility Supplement, getting a new car is easy and affordable. Through Motability, you simply turn part or all of your allowance into the car of your choice. There are no waiting lists or credit checks to contend with and no assessments are required. There are two ways to obtain a car, Contract Hire or Hire Purchase.

The most popular option is 'Contract Hire' where you'll gain a new car of your choice every three years, insurance and personal accident cover for named drivers and passengers, servicing and maintenance by your Motability dealer and full breakdown assistance from the RAC. And, that's not all because you will also receive an annual tax disc sent directly to your home (except in Northern Ireland or the Isle of Man), 45,000 miles mileage allowance over three years, free replacement tyres fitted by Kwik-Fit, window or windscreen replacement at no extra cost, one-stop customer helpline and help with transport (where possible) when your car is being serviced or repaired.

Motability's worry-free policy continues right to the end of the three-year contract with a seamless transfer to another new car. Customers can choose from over 3,000 different models from their local dealers so it is no wonder that 97% of customers would be happy to recommend the Motability scheme. The vast majority of manufacturers offer cars under the scheme so to find out more about Motability, its various schemes and the many current deals offered, you only have to visit your local Motability dealer.

Wine and dine

Make mine Chardonnay

Chardonnay – the wine that gave rise to dozens of little girls being named after mummy's favourite tippie – is in danger of being left on the shelf, writes Lucy Corry

Image-wise, it's been a tough few years for the gutsy grape. First Bridget Jones started knocking it back to salve her singleton worries, then Kath and Kim started having a nice glass of 'cardonnay' on the patio.

According to a TNS retail survey, 200,000 fewer drinkers put a bottle of 'chardy' in their shopping basket in the last year.

Wine guru Oz Clarke blamed Bridget Jones for making chardonnay look like the drink of choice for the desperate and dateless, but there must be more to it than that.

Maybe it's climate change – a year of rampant drought in Australia has slashed yields – or perhaps it's competition from what are perceived to be classier varieties like sauvignon blanc and pinot grigio.

Either way, I refuse to believe that chardonnay is uncool. Sure, there are plenty of dodgy ones, but a good chardonnay has incredible depth of flavour.

The big, bold Australian chardonnays that tended to dominate the cheap and cheerful end of the wine aisle may become less prevalent as New World winemakers adapt their styles to suit the UK and European markets.

Keep an eye out for the new Grey Label 2007 Chardonnay from Aussie brand McGuigan. This is a lean and elegant wine from the country that brought us sunshine in a glass, with good length and acidity. It's going to be available from Tesco in early August, priced £6.99.

McWilliams Hanwood Crisp Chardonnay 2007 (also £6.99 at Tesco) is another refined nail in the coffin for heavy oaky Aussie chardonnay.

It's fruity, but not aggressively so, and the non-chardonnay fan I served it to was pleasantly surprised. She even asked for a second glass!

If your friends are fully paid-up members of the ABC (Anything But Chardonnay) Club, tell them that Les Quatre Clochers Chardonnay Reserve 2005 is white burgundy. This gorgeous wine, winner of a silver medal at the 2007 International Wine Challenge, represents amazing value – it's like finding a decent designer knock-off at half the price of the original. It's £7.20 at Tesco.

Alternatively, tempt them with a glass of Nederberg Chardonnay Viognier 2007 (you might want to mumble the chardonnay bit). The viognier gives this crisp, full-bodied wine a refreshing lemony lift – and it's just £4.99 from Morrisons and Waitrose.

You could further lure them into French chardonnay territory with a glass of Macon Chardonnay Grande Reserve 2005 (currently on special for £8.50 at Nicolas). By this stage they'll either be seeing the error of their ways, or they'll have run from the room – which means there's all the more for the rest of us.

Lastly, save Bushland Reserve Chardonnay for your best chardonnay-drinking mates. This is proper old-school Ocker chardonnay with big, bold fruit flavours and lots of oak, direct from the famous Hunter Valley.

This style of wine might not be so fashionable these days, but people who choose their wine according to fashion deserve to drink vinegar. Best of all, it's £3.99 a bottle at Aldi – and that kind of bargain is always in vogue.

DRINK THIS: It's organic, it's Chilean, it costs just over £6 – and it's even suitable for vegans – there's a lot to love about Gamma Organic Chardonnay 2007 even before you pop the cork. Lots of lush fruity flavours make this a summer winner. Gamma Organic Chardonnay 2007 is available from Oddbins, priced £6.49, or £5.19 a bottle if you buy a case.

Music makers go green

KIRSTEN AND MIKE

ACOUSTIC ASTRONAUTS

Last summer's Live Earth concert was an unmitigated disaster, with the sound of environmentalists jumping on the bandwagon drowning out the music.

The event was a damning example of how glib and embarrassing the melding of music and big issues – be they politics, charity or the environment – can be.

Bank Holiday Monday's Carshalton Environmental Fair is aiming to succeed where Live Earth failed.

Rather than concentrating on empty sloganeering, organisers EcoLocal are focusing on encouraging people to engage with environmental issues and an array of musical talent promises to make the event go with a swing.

EVENTS: Carshalton Environmental Fair

The Music Café, run by the ever-popular Sutton Acoustic Music Club, is one of three stages offering an eclectic mix of musicians and performers.

Balalaika bring their striking brand of Russian and Jewish folk music to the café and band member Justin Bateman, who plays the prima balalaika (the instrument after which the band was named), is looking forward to playing the fair for the fifth consecutive year.

"We believe in the environmental issues being raised and it is a rewarding thing for us to do," he says.

"We play traditional Russian music and Klesma, a genre of Jewish music from eastern Europe which is enjoying something of a roots revival."

What can newcomers to Russian/Jewish folk music expect to hear?

"The music is blisteringly fast and upbeat and then can change to be slow and moody. It is a real eye-opener and the crowd always react warmly," he says.

Balalaika are joined on the café's bill by Betty and the Acoustic Astronauts, who currently feature award-winning Irish fiddle player Niamh Gallagher. The Astronauts will play a set of Americana covers by the likes of Alison Krauss, as well as a number of their own compositions.

Highlights on the main stage include punky teenage upstarts 75 Stories and Surrey indie rockers Venkman will showcase material from their new EP which they have been honing at venues across London over the past year.

Headlining the stage will be Adam Donen and the Drought who are putting in a rare live appearance. The band, who have been compared to Nick Cave and the Bad Seeds and the Arcade Fire, will perform tracks from their soon-to-be-released mini-album As Our Parents Slowly Turn To Clay.

The trio of stages is completed by the Performing Arts Marquee. This stage will host a set of country tunes by The High Chaparrals, soulful Daniel Joe, and singer-songwriter Michael Ray Jnr.

Carshalton Environmental Fair, Bank Holiday Monday (August 25). £3, U12s go free, and U16s £1. Gates open 10.30am and event ends at 8pm. For a full line-up visit ecolocal.org.uk

The week ahead

Ale and hearty

If looking after the kids this bank holiday weekend proves to be thirsty work, why not head to the White Horse in Epsom for a fantastic festival of real ales, cider, entertainment and top pub grub? The beer tent is free to enter and real ales and authentic ciders are just £2 a pint. The tent is open from midday to dusk on all four days of the weekend. Friday to Monday, The White Horse, 63 Dorking Road. Call 01372 726622.

Here come the Mods

On Friday the Mods vs Rockers at the Boom Boom Club, featuring Johnny Warman, promises to be a musical battle royale. Expect the best of The Small Faces, The Kinks, the Who, The Animals, The Yardbirds and Spencer Davis. Boom Boom Club, Gander Green Lane, £10 (advance), £12 (on the door). Call 020 8761 9078.

Hot stuff

Head to Carshalton Jazz Club on Tuesday to enjoy the Yerba Buena Celebration Jazz Band. Come and enjoy this exciting tribute to 1940s jazz pioneers Yerba Buena that always get the crowd jumping. 8pm (doors 7pm) at Carshalton Jazz Club. £9 (non-members), £8 (non-members) £4 (concessions). 020 8647 2114.

Shelling out

Kids can get creative by learning how to make a seashell photo frame at Whitehall in Cheam. They will be able to take home a frame decorated with shells and other seaside motifs for that special picture. Tickets are £3 per child and must be booked in advance from Whitehall, 1 Malden Road, on 020 8643 1236 or by emailing whitehallcheam@btconnect.com

horoscopes with Claire Petulengro

Aries March 21 - April 20

Recently you have been left to cope with everything on your own and I can see from your stars that you're feeling somewhat bitter about this fact. What you don't yet realise though is that close ones knew you'd do an admirable job and they're about to tell you too. Call my starline now to hear why now is the beginning of great teamwork.

Call: 0906 585 4732

Taurus April 21 - May 21

Your flirtatious nature is brought to the fore by Venus who seems insistent that you get involved in a situation the rest of us would go out of our way to stay away from. Not you though Taurus, especially with the persuasive power of a Gemini behind you. Call my starline now to hear why playful games in love are about to turn serious.

Call: 0906 585 4733

Gemini May 22 - June 21

The Moon and Neptune help you to move on from a situation which at the beginning of the month, you thought you would never hear the end of. Times have changed though and so have you Gemini. Decisions you make on Thursday and Friday are guaranteed to confirm this fact. Call my starline now to hear which liar you need to expose.

Call: 0906 585 4734

Cancer June 22 - July 22

Something you thought you wanted no longer seems to be a priority to you. The reaction of a close one has forced you to sit down and think about issues you usually do a very good job of avoiding. You come out of this week happier and stronger and finally able to leave a bad influence behind. Call now for a review of your future.

Call: 0906 585 4735

Leo July 23 - Aug 24

You have given up so much for your close ones but recently they have done very little to prove they would do the same for you. They are nervous though Leo and need you to confirm which direction you want to go in. The mixed signals you have sent out of late require you to do some serious translating. Call me now for lucky news on finances.

Call: 0906 585 4736

Virgo Aug 23 - Sept 22

You seem to be acting more like a councillor than a friend to your close ones recently. You're bored now though and your chart shows you may be going to some pretty extreme lengths in order to find fun and excitement. Links with the law can go well if you are willing to play by the rules. Call me now to learn an important fact about your future.

Call: 0906 585 4737

Libra Sept 23 - Oct 23

You have made some promises which are going to have to be broken. Rather than skulking around to avoid saying what needs to be said, face close ones head on. It's sure to earn you the respect you have been so frightened of losing. Neptune has a hidden message for you in your dreams. Call me now to make sense of life.

Call: 0906 585 4738

Scorpio Oct 24 - Nov 21

Everything that happens this week is for a reason. Faces you see will have a reason for wanting to speak to you and work that you do holds the key to whether or not the changes you want can transpire. With this in mind, dress to impress and make sure you present yourself in the best possible way. Call now for a surprise from Venus.

Call: 0906 585 4739

Sagittarius Nov 22 - Dec 20

You have been listening to so much gossip recently that it has become impossible for you to tell the difference between fact and fiction. Try not to speculate on a close one's new relationship either. Facts on your own affairs and that of others come to light on Friday. Call me now to hear why travel and success this week go hand in hand.

Call: 0906 585 4740

Capricorn Dec 21 - Jan 20

Questions need to be asked before you can make any decisions about your future. For close ones to think you will go into their offers blind is both immature and foolish. Time spent with a Scorpio can shed much light on the most important subject. Call my starline now to hear why family and children are of great relevance this week.

Call: 0906 585 4741

Aquarius Jan 21 - Feb 19

Stop trying to help people who won't help themselves. You of all signs should know that progress can only be made if you have a hand held out for you to take. The pace steps up in love and it's time for you to commit further or back away as drama on both Tuesday and Thursday should soon confirm. Call me now for a clearer view of your future.

Call: 0906 585 4742

Pisces Feb 20 - March 20

You are playing games in love Pisces. Oh, you can deny it all you like, but it's written all over your chart. You'd better get serious by Wednesday though when a loved one demands an answer which will change the course of your future together. Call my starline now to hear why it's worth chasing up old contracts for career progress.

Music and mayhem

Jacqui Dankworth and Joe Pasquale are the stand-out names from an impressive list of acts that will be appearing at Epsom Playhouse this autumn.

Jacqui Dankworth is the undisputed Princess of Jazz and is regarded as one of the finest singers of her generation, while Joe Pasquale is one of the country's best-loved comics.

Dankworth, whose influences include jazz, soul, folk and blues, will be performing on Wednesday, September 17, at 8pm with the support of some of Britain's most talented musicians. The daughter of legendary jazz musician and composer Sir John Dankworth, Jacqui came to prominence with her first major crossover album As The Sun Shines Down On Me in 2003.

It was at this time that she first came to the attention of Sir Michael Parkinson who is full of praise for the talented jazz singer. The veteran broadcaster says: "There are very few singers who can sound so good on record and even better when you see them live on stage; Jacqui Dankworth is one of the few who sounds fantastic all the time."

Joe Pasquale will take the stage on Thursday, October 9, with his latest stand-up tour Back On The Road. Pasquale has appeared in the Royal Variety Show and also starred in ITV reality show I'm A Celebrity Get Me Out Of Here!. The chirpy Cockney comic is most renowned for his stand-up, however, and this latest outing is widely anticipated.

Other acts worth looking out for are Gary Wilmot and Mike Alexander in the play With Compliments On Sunday, September 21, at 7.30pm, and Julian Lloyd Webber In Concert on Wednesday, November 12.

All in all it, it looks set to be a very exciting season at the Playhouse with something on offer for everyone.

For more information visit epsomplayhouse.co.uk or call the box office on 01372 742555/742227.

FILMS What's on

HELLBOY II: THE GOLDEN ARMY (12A): The sequel to Guillermo del Toro's 2004 fantasy is every bit as fast and furious as its predecessor, melding dazzling production design with wry humour and explosive action sequences. Del Toro's imagination run amok, concocting a dark and bloody fairy-tale full of trolls, goblins and a 9ft Angel Of Death. Hellboy II is a triumph of design.

GET SMART (12A): Based on a madcap 60s TV series, Get Smart is a comic caper about an accident-prone yet sensitive secret agent who might just be mankind's last, great hope. Maxwell Smart is a surveillance expert for secret US agency CONTROL, monitoring conversations from Russian agency KAOS. When the secret identities of CONTROL's operatives around the world are compromised, Maxwell is dispatched to Russia under the guidance of feisty mentor Agent 99.

STAR WARS: THE CLONE WARS (PG): Just when you thought George Lucas had milked his intergalactic cash cow dry with endless re-issues of the Star Wars saga on DVD, he executive produces this computer-animated adventure. Clone Wars slips neatly into the narrative divide between Attack Of The Clones and Revenge Of The Sith, although the inertia of human and alien characters isn't convincing.

YOU DON'T MESS WITH THE ZOHAN (12A): This is a comedy about an Israeli agent who dreams of becoming a hairdresser. But, sadly, there is just puerile humour and cultural stereotypes, plus a waft of homophobia. Centuries of conflict are neatly resolved as Israelis and Palestinians join forces in the closing minutes to defeat an even greater foe: rampant American

capitalism. ★★
WILD CHILD (12A): A culture-clash comedy which dons similar narrative garb to St Trinian's, transplanting a fashion-obsessed American teenager to the dusty corridors of an English boarding school. However, Poppy soon learns to look behind the draconian rules and finds camaraderie where she least expects it. ★★
THE MUMMY: TOMB OF THE DRAGON EMPEROR (12A): writer-director Stephen Sommers and leading lady Rachel Weisz, sensibly bailed on this dull third chapter of the globetrotting adventure series, leaving Brendan Fraser to gamely battle on with a plodding and predictable script. ★★

Who's who?

Danny "Kite" Leach (vocals), Rich "the Ripper" Hughes (guitar), Ben Howie (bass), "Just" Ben Thomas (drums).

Danny fronts with swagger and dirty melodies, Rich delivers big riffs with a touch of class, Ben keeps the grooves pumping and the funk solid and Ben is hard hitting and in your face.

In a world that is spiralling out of control Mista:Kite are insistent on making their mark. With big riffage and a dangerous live performance we are a force to be reckoned with. Mista:Kite is ready to challenge the world...

Describe your sound/influences

Big riffola that is straight up, honest and grooving. We deliver an intoxicating potion from the cauldron of the rock, the funk and the blues.

How formed?

It started in Brighton 2006. We have a message and a sound we all believe in.

Shout outs

We have a few brothers of the Kite, but it would be a crime if we did not mention Browns, Willow and Chop.

Song we wish we had written

Off the top of my head, Last Goodbye by Jeff Buckley.

Where do you play?

We have a residency every third thursday of the month at Mista:Kite's favourite hangout the Native Tongue, Epsom High Street. We play regularly between London and Brighton and are always up for playing more.

Band focus Mista:Kite

Fantasy festival line-up?

Led Zeppelin, Rage Against the Machine, the Raconteurs, Jimi Hendrix, Kasabian and Mista:Kite

What's your dream for the band?

Playing at Reading and Glastonbury, we'd be happy with that.

Best/funniest moment?

Ben often comes up with some great one liners.

Any singles/EPs/albums?

EP is currently on myspace and we are going into the studio shortly with a single scheduled for new year.

Catch us live

Mista:Kite play the Native Tongue, 8pm, August 21, free entry, over 18s. Also September 18 - Native Tongue, September 25 - Halfmoon, Putney, October 2 - the Grey Horse, Kingston.

Anything else?

Club A2Z

Sutton Spartans Basketball Club

Grand slam:
Sutton Spartans are looking for new members to join their team

Rookies

Sutton Spartans is a young club, started two years ago by head coach and club chairman Tommy Brown.

Code of honour

Based at Sutton Grammar School for Boys, the club lists several Sutton Grammar old boys among the players but is open to anybody who wants to play, train or just have some fun. There is a really good, welcoming and friendly atmosphere at training although there is also a more serious side. The Sutton Spartans Basketball Club share many of the beliefs of ancient Sparta and, despite the difficulties of playing against teams who choose from a huge pool of players, the Sutton Spartans remain loyal to the local community.

Dream team

The club senior team played their first season in the Surrey Men's league last year and are about to start their second season. The squad has been strengthened over the summer so they are hoping to improve on last season which saw several strong performances.

In the zone

Training sessions are on Tuesdays at Sutton Grammar's hall in Greyhound Road. The club runs sessions for the following age groups: Seven, eight & nine: 3.45pm-5pm, £2; Primary School Years Five and Six: 5pm-6.30pm, £2; U16: 6.30pm-8pm, £3; U18: 6.30pm-8pm, £3; Senior Men: 8pm-10pm, £5.

Teamwork

From July 28-30, the club ran a coaching programme for young people at Sutton Grammar School's Ball Hall. Twelve players attended the three-day course during which they improved their skills as well as learning new ones. At the end of each day, there was a mini-tournament where players could test their skills. The last day also saw an NBA two-ball competition. Fierce competition produced some exceptional scores and it was clear teamwork was key for the winning teams.

New circle wanted

Spartans is currently looking to set up two new teams in time to play next season - U16s and U18s. For more information and to join, visit suttonspartans.co.uk or e-mail suttonspartans@hotmail.co.uk

Supplies Assistant

Full time: 37.5 hrs/wk

Salary: £16,000 to £18,500 depending on experience

This role involves ordering, receiving and issuing a range of supplies using computerised systems. The ability to learn, understand and utilise the procurement package is therefore essential. Knowledge of MS Outlook and Excel would be an advantage. We are looking for a team player with the ability to communicate confidently and professionally in person and by phone. You must be conscientious, able to prioritise and work to deadlines whilst maintaining attention to detail.

Business Office Cashier

Hours: 30hrs/wk over 5 days; shifts between 8am-6pm incl. occasional Saturday mornings

Salary: from £13,260 depending on experience

This role involves dealing with patient payments on a daily basis both in person and by phone. The role also involves assisting in many areas within the Business Office including inpatient and outpatient accounts and credit control issues. To succeed in this role you will have excellent communication skills and be able to demonstrate experience working within an administrative role with the ability to multi task.

Bank Radiographer / Mammographer

Rate: c. £18 /hr depending on experience

With the installation of our new digital mammography unit, we are looking for a suitably qualified, enthusiastic Bank Radiographer / Mammographer to join our professional team. We are also looking for general bank Radiographers.

Pharmacist

Part time: 22.5 hrs/wk (3 x 7.5 hour days)

Salary: from £18,000 depending on experience

We are currently looking for a part-time qualified Pharmacist to join our friendly, professional team. You will be a self-starter, able to cover both clinical and pharmacy-based services.

RGN - Outpatient Department x 2 (1x Dermatology)

Full Time: 37.5 hrs/wk; shifts to include evenings and Saturdays

Salary: c. £26,000 depending on experience

We are looking for two enthusiastic team players to join our busy Nursing team delivering clinical care in a multi-speciality environment. You will be proactive, highly organised nurses, keen to develop your skills and with the ability to work under pressure. One post will involve specifically working alongside a Consultant Dermatologist to support and develop this service. You will therefore have a particular interest in this field whilst also having responsibility to work as part of the Outpatient team.

Senior Musculoskeletal Outpatient Physiotherapist

(maternity cover)

Full Time: 37.5 hrs/wk for 6 months: Jan-July 2009 with possibility of extending

Shifts: to include evenings

Salary: from £33,000 (pro rata) depending on experience

An exciting opportunity has arisen for a dynamic, motivated physiotherapist with a specialist interest and experience in the treatment and management of sports injuries, to join our friendly musculoskeletal team. You will have proven skills in this speciality with excellent communication and interpersonal skills.

Bank Senior Physiotherapists

Shifts: Evenings and Saturday mornings

Rate: from £16.90 /hr

Due to continuing expansion of our services we are looking for experienced and enthusiastic physiotherapists to join our bank team. Requests for treatment are received from self referring patients, local GP's and Consultants, providing a stimulating case mix with a bias towards acute musculoskeletal injuries and post operative orthopaedic rehabilitation.

Closing date for receipt of applications: Wednesday 3rd September 2008

In return for your professionalism & commitment we offer:

- 25 days annual leave (pro rata for part-time)
- Ongoing training
- Life Assurance & Private Healthcare
- Free off-site parking
- Contributory Pension scheme
- Subsidised staff restaurant

For a full job description & application pack, please call 01372 221449 or e-mail: sonia.czarnopolski@ramsayhealth.co.uk or lisa.lonnon@ramsayhealth.co.uk (NO AGENCIES PLEASE).

Learning Disabilities
New Service - Sutton

Team Leader • Ref: 0401

£17,526 - £18,827 p.a. + £2,042 London Weighting • 38 hrs p.w.

This is a fantastic opportunity to be in at the start of a brand new Learning Disabilities service in Sutton. Each day, the people we support will enjoy lots of different activities, from swimming and creative arts sessions, to family visits, meals out and beauty therapy. It's all very exciting; will you be able to keep up with the pace?

As Leader for this service, you'll focus on making sure that the people we support are positively encouraged to make informed choices and decisions which enable them to lead lives as they choose. It involves lots of team work - supporting and overseeing day to day activities, whilst keeping records, supervising staff and making sure person centred plans are implemented and adhered to. It therefore goes without saying that you'll need excellent organisation skills, as well as a proven history of working in a similar capacity - you'll need to be up-to-speed with things like risk assessments and health and safety. In addition you'll possess an NVQ III in Care or be willing to work towards it.

Support Workers

£15,658 - £18,760 p.a. pro rata (inc. London Weighting)

(i) Full & Part Time (P/T Hrs Neg.) • Ref: 0402

(ii) Casual Opportunities (as and when needed) • Ref: 0402B

Support Work is all about teaching key skills and enabling choices. You're there to assist our service users in all aspects of their lives, from supporting them with varying degrees of personal care, right through to helping them pay their bills and offering general encouragement for everyday tasks.

If you have similar work experience then great, if not don't worry because we offer unrivalled in-house training to NVQ level and excellent mentor support. All we ask is that you can demonstrate people skills, a patient, yet confident approach, plus good written English and verbal communication skills.

To apply for either position, call: 0845 257 7468 (local rate), or TEXT the ref no., plus your name and address to: 07948 218986 by the 29th August 2008. Closing date: 5th September 2008.

Job Title - Community Links Development Worker

Location - Her Majesty's Young Offenders Institute
- Down View - Sutton - Surrey

Annual Salary £27,759

The YMCA is a leading Christian charity committed to supporting all young people, particularly in times of need.

YMCA England supports and represents the work of over 140 YMCAs providing professional and relevant services that make a difference to the lives of young people in over 250 communities.

We are seeking to recruit for this new post that is an exciting opportunity for a well organised, enthusiastic, self-motivated professional to develop supporting young women in social need.

Young women will be befriended on reception to the YJB funded young persons Unit and supported through their time in custody in this new and innovative role. Working alongside a multi agency team you will form effective and professional relationships with the young women to ensure effective links into appropriate programmes and projects on release for continued self development; whilst also following the young women's development for a set period of time on release or on transfer to other establishments.

This post also requires in depth monitoring and recording of information to be reviewed on a quarterly basis to enable the unit and the YJB to see developments made by the young women on release.

The post-holder will be active in pro social modelling and able to lead by example with fellow colleagues in this area, representing the YMCA and its work with the young women on the unit and within the multi agency meetings. You will need to demonstrate knowledge in the following areas; children's act, every child matters framework and safe guarding as the unit operates within these boundaries.

You will have and be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the needs of young women in custody along with a general knowledge of the criminal justice system. You will have a sound knowledge and awareness of agencies around the south east and metropolitan area, who the young women can work with on release.

The successful individual must be experienced at with working with disadvantaged young people and sound knowledge of the prison service and youth justice system are both preferred.

Travel expenses available whilst fulfilling this role.

The initial contract for the post is until 2011, subject to review depending on the success of the project.

For an application form, please contact Cherise Scotland at YMCA England email: cherise.scotland@england.ymca.org.uk or call 020 8509 4518

It's not just about housing. It's about quality of life.

Retirement Housing Scheme Manager

£20,889 - £21,988 (pro rata) 18 hours per week Wimbledon

We need a Scheme Manager we can rely on to provide the best possible service to our elderly tenants at Erica House. The retirement flats on this site are maintained to a high standard, and provide a very pleasant and relaxing home. If your background in a people-orientated role has given you a good understanding of older people's needs, you could be ideal for this role.

As manager, you'll involve the tenants in decisions affecting their community, and encourage them to have their say through your presence on the site. Dealing with day-to-day repairs and office administration will be major part of this role. You will also promote continuous improvement by winning the support of everyone who can help make Erica House an even better place to live, work and visit.

So if you have experience of working with older people or in a supported housing environment and have the enthusiasm, initiative and judgement to be a success here, please go to www.origingroup.org.uk/careers.aspx to download an application form. Closing Date: 8th September 2008. Interviews: 16th September 2008. If you do not hear back from us within three weeks of the closing date, please assume that your application has been unsuccessful.

Romero left feeling on top of the world

High flyer: Danny Lawrence at St Mary's Junior School Deadlinepix Staph Ousellam SP21612

Danny's display amazes youngsters

Great Britain gymnast Danny Lawrence gave a breathtaking display of gymnastics at St Martin's Junior School in Epsom.

Pupils and staff gasped as Danny performed an incredible routine of floor exercises, including a flying leap over three children and a teacher.

His visit was arranged with the organisation Sport for Schools, which helps to raise funds for athletes and schools at the same time.

The St Martin's pupils did their bit for the scheme by taking part in a series of sponsored exercises having listened

by LAWRENCE DUNHILL

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

to an inspirational speech by the 24-year-old gymnast.

Danny went through the basics of floor gymnastics, including forward rolls, somersaults and cartwheels, before dazzling everyone with his more advanced techniques.

Dimitrios Bradshaw, of Sports for Schools, hopes the programme can get more youngsters involved in sport.

"We want to promote fun, fitness and inspiration," he said.

"It's not all about football and we want to show kids how good athletics and gymnastics can be."

Other athletes on their books include Olympians Jade Johnson (long jump) and Beth Tweddle (gymnastics), along with footballer Leroy Lita, of Reading FC.

Lawrence is currently placed third in the GB gymnastics rankings and only just missed out on making the team for Beijing.

He is now setting his sights on getting to the next Commonwealth and World Championships.

Rebecca Romero insists a burning desire for gold helped her re-write the record books just two years after her switch to track cycling.

The Carshalton-born 28-year-old, who won rowing silver in Athens, became only the second athlete in Olympic history, after East Germany's Roswitha Krause, to medal in two different sports at a summer games.

Romero led team-mate Wendy Houvenaghel from start to finish in the final of the individual pursuit and took gold at the Lasoshan Velodrome, clocking 3:28.32 to complete her dream start to life on dry land.

And Romero believes the success of Team GB on two wheels should be followed by other sports by the time the Games arrive in London in 2012.

"I'd have been absolutely gutted if I had got the silver as I had done in Athens. It's still pretty incredible but I'm so proud of myself," Romero said.

"If it were easy, so many people would have done it

by DAVID JORDAN

already and this has taken a lot of hard work.

"It was D-day for me. I knew it was going to be the toughest race of my life. I just put my head down and went for it.

"I wanted gold, I wanted to be champion. Now I've put my mark down to be remembered.

"Cycling's been a vehicle to getting a gold medal and I think the model should be replicated.

"The rest of British sport should look at the success cycling has had and model it.

"If other British sports don't learn from us we are not going to dominate at the London Games."

Romero, who also won the 2005 World Championships in the quadruple sculls, was forced to switch sports by a persistent back injury but the agony has soon turned to ecstasy.

She warmed up for Beijing by winning the world championships in the individual pursuit and team event in Manchester earlier this year and finished 11th in the points race just 24 hours after being crowned Olympic champion.

She added: "It was pretty

Joy: Rebecca Romero

hard getting back on the bike after all the emotion of the previous day.

"I had not done any training for it and that showed.

"I just tried to get in there and blow their legs off.

"I'm really pleased, I didn't show myself up and, if I trained specifically for it, I can perform a bit better.

"However, I've got what I have come for - I am going home an Olympic champion and that's an incredible feeling."

Glanfield hails battling spirit

by TOM BELL

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton-born Joe Glanfield admitted he was a relieved man after he and partner Nick Rogers snatched silver in the 470 class in Qingdao on Monday.

The pair, who finished second in the same event at Athens in 2004, began the day in fourth, knowing gold was already secured by the Australians.

The 2005 World Championship silver medallists finished 19th in the opening Olympic race, but battled back to fourth, needing to beat France and the Netherlands to climb the podium.

And 29-year-old Glanfield, who claimed silver with Rogers in the 2007 Olympic

Heading for the final: Martyn Rooney crosses the line in Beijing Mike Fleet

Rooney ready for final

John Fisher old boy Martyn Rooney ran a personal best in his 400m Olympics semi-final to qualify fourth fastest for today's final.

The 21-year-old left himself a lot to do in the home straight as he came round the bend in sixth position, but trusted himself enough to overhaul five of the athletes ahead of him and claim one of the two automatic final spots.

He crossed the line in 44.60 seconds, 0.12 seconds off his previous best, set in Monaco last month, and 0.48 seconds behind one of the favourites for gold, American LaShawn Merritt.

The quick time should help him get a good lane draw for Thursday's final, where he will face a tough task to secure a medal.

Sutton-based Andy Turner failed by two-hundredths of a second to reach the 110m hurdles semi-finals.

He was eliminated after finishing fifth in his second-round heat in 13.53. But he went one better than he managed on his Olympic debut in Athens four years ago.

"We made a bit of a mistake at the beginning. Every other boat who had a medal chance wanted to cover us, but then we did a good run and took a couple of boats," said Glanfield.

Scintillating Sinclair is the time trial king

After time off with injury and illness, David Sinclair (SW25-29, South London Harriers) was back on form at the Banstead Woods time trial to win for the first time in 17.37, just a few seconds short of his personal best for the course.

In second place, James Andrew Jones (SM 20-24) ran a fine time of 17.51, and was followed closely by Joseph Hook (JM15-19), in 17.59.

For the women, Rachel Burbridge (SW 30-34), of Kingston AC and Polytechnic Harriers, won in 19.41, her 12th win and 14th appearance.

In second place, Ali Brown (SW 30-34), of Reigate Priory AC, ran an excellent time of 20.13, a PB, and was followed by Susan Boros, in 22.40, also setting a new PB.

Helen Wilson (JW14), of South London Harriers, was the first young female athlete in 22.54, a good time considering the long injury break this Anne Roden-coached athlete has had recently.

The first male young athlete was Connor Murphy in 19.34.

Connor runs for his school, John Fisher, the alma mater of Olympic medal hope Martin Rooney.

Nigel Griffiths, who coaches for Sutton and District AC, also had some good young runners competing.

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton United boss Paul Doswell has described the next seven days as a good test of his squad's credentials, having seen wing wizard Adam Wilde ruled out for three weeks through injury.

Wilde missed Saturday's 1-1 draw at Harlow Town – a game that saw Gavin McCallum bag his first goal for the club – after damaging ankle ligaments in training two days before the start of the season.

He was also absent on Tuesday night, when Dean Palmer's second-half strike secured a 1-1 draw against Ramsgate as Sutton came from behind again.

Striker Chukki Eribenne has also been struggling after spraining his ankle last week, while defender Alan Bray has been suspended, putting early pressure on Doswell's 20-man squad.

But the Gander Green Lane boss reckons the emergence of Adam Roberts and Delando Smith at the weekend proves he has the strength in depth to cope with any enforced absences at the start of the campaign.

"Losing Chukki and Adam has been a good test of our squad and a draw in difficult circumstances shows we are up to the job," he said.

"Losing Adam is a blow, but we have the strength in depth to cope. We want to play two wide men and get crosses into the box.

"The absence of some players provides a chance for others to show what they can do. I thought, from that point of view, Adam and Delando made a good impact on our performance at the weekend."

McCallum, signed from Havant & Waterlooville in the summer, took 12 minutes to open his account for the club as he levelled Harlow's seventh minute opener on Saturday.

He could have handed all three points when he struck a post when well-placed late on.

"I went into the game aiming to score a hat-trick and I came close," said McCallum.

Upcoming fixtures: August 23 Hendon (h), 25 Tooting & Mitcham (a), 30 Hastings (h).

Knights has high hopes

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton & Epsom head coach Martin Knights has set his sights on a top four finish this season, with a major re-shuffle of the London Leagues on the cards next year.

Knights' men finished seventh last season – despite threatening to challenge the top three – but went on to claim the Surrey Cup with a 14-3 triumph over Chobham.

The re-structuring of English rugby outside of the top three divisions could mean Sutton will have to at least finish in the top half of the table to ensure London Division One rugby next season.

But Knights, who has not splashed out on taking his squad on a pre-season training camp this time around, is more concerned with making sure his side is on course to step up to national level rugby within the next two years.

"The league is going to be very tough, particularly when you consider the likes of Barnes have been recruiting very heavily in preparation for the re-shuffle," he said.

"I would think we will need to finish in the top half to be certain of staying where we are."

"We should have finished higher last year. I would have conceded the Surrey Cup win for a top four or five finish any day of the week."

"We had a three-year plan for promotion before the start of last season and we need to be around the top three or four to make sure we are on course for the following season."

Tight-head prop Graham Hill replaces Sutton legend James Clark as captain this season with full-back Keith Middleton returning to add experience in the back line as full-back.

Knights is now eyeing a National League level number 15 to supplement the squad having welcomed a host of new faces to the club over the summer.

Cheam are still hopeful

For the third successive NSL Bowls League match, Cheam came out with maximum points and, with one league game to go, are knocking on the door of the league championship.

It was a comfortable win overall at Earlsfield, but Ken Bailey, David Coward, Tony Soper and Mike Haigh had to fight all the way, coming back from 6-14 down at the halfway stage to take a six-shot lead with two ends to go.

The game was not over and the home rink fought back with a three at the 19th but had to settle in the end for a narrow one-shot defeat.

Elsewhere, Mike McDonagh's rink lost the first three ends and went behind by six shots, but settled in to take the next 10 ends and a 20-shot lead at the 13th.

Mike Wrangmore, Brian Russell, Colin Poppel and David Miller quietly plugged away, losing only six of the 21 ends, and won by 16 shots.

Sutton still in trouble

Sutton's first defeat in six matches against fellow strugglers Sunbury on Saturday has plunged them back in to Surrey Championship Premier Division relegation trouble.

Skipper Keith Medlycott's men are now just seven points clear of the drop zone as their miserable form in the limited-overs format of the game continued.

The Gander Green Lane side failed to win a single match in the opening five 50-over games of the season and saw the run continue with a 63-run home defeat at the weekend.

Phil Sampson's 2-42 proved to be the pick of the bowling as Sunbury were restricted to 185-8, but Sutton's reply went from bad to worse as they were dismissed for 122.

Banstead maintain their push

by MARK SPRING

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Any doubts regarding Banstead CC's credentials to push for promotion to the Surrey Premier Division were swept aside at Avenue Road as the team stormed to an eighth successive win in completed games, defeating league leaders Weybridge by seven wickets.

This victory was founded on a fine opening burst from Adam Clarke, a superb all-round performance from Matt Spriegel and another solid innings from Rory Burns.

Banstead are still in second place but have moved to within seven points of Weybridge with three matches remaining.

Electing to bat first, Weybridge were stunned by an excellent opening spell by Clarke, who removed the openers, Franklyn and Slipper, both caught at slip by Spriegel, and clean bowled Walters with only 15 runs on the board.

Spriegel later produced a spell of 4-13 as Weybridge slipped to 154-7.

Tight bowling from Spriegel and Mark Houghton restricted Weybridge to 16 runs from their final eight overs, finishing on 170 all out.

Rory Burns, Mark Houghton and Matt Spreigel all starred with the bat before skipper Woodward hit 18 off 14 balls to see Banstead safely home with seven wickets to spare.

Woodward said: "This has been a terrific run for the team, but we must stay focused on our remaining games."

Banstead are away at Esher next Saturday.

Hazel: We'll bounce back

by SIMON FITZJOHN

sfzjohn@london.newsquest.co.uk

Hazel said: "That was a real kick in the teeth to lose so late.

"When you get awarded a penalty with a few minutes left and it's 0-0, you don't expect to lose the game 1-0.

"So that was very disappointing for us. But I think Weybridge will be up there or thereabouts all season.

"I thought we defended really well and it was only a great goal that beat us."

It was Hutchings who had grabbed the important second as Leatherhead got their season off to a flyer at the weekend, Stuart Holmes notching the first.

And Hazel remains happy that progress is being made.

He added: "We are certainly in better shape than last season. Our defence looks strong and we have a lot of good young players coming through."

The Tanners will now face Cray Wanderers at Fetcham Grove on Saturday, before travelling to Chipstead on Bank Holiday Monday.

And the Leatherhead boss revealed he is still waiting for things to settle down.

He added: "The first 10 games of the season just sets everything up.

"We could easily be talking about having six points from six.

"But, instead, we have three and just have to get on with it."

Upcoming fixtures: August 23 Cray Wanderers (h), 25 Chipstead (a), 30 Ashford Town, FA Cup (a).

REGULAR SPORT UPDATES at yourlocalguardian.co.uk

SPORTSbrief

FOOTBALL: Epsom & Ewell maintained their interest in this season's FA Cup by advancing past the extra preliminary round with a 4-2 win at Eastbourne United. Chad Heuston was again among the goals as he grabbed a couple, with Charlie West and Leon White adding the others. The win sees Epsom advance to meet Frimley Green in the preliminary round, but they are back in Combined Counties League action at the weekend when Cobham are the visitors.

CRICKET: Leatherhead & Cobham defeated Cranleigh by seven wickets in Saturday's Surrey Championship Division Three clash. Batting first, Cranleigh made 136 all out in 42.4 overs, with Leatherhead's Dillon Woutersz starring with the ball with figures of 6-39. In reply, Leatherhead hit 139-3 in 39.2 overs, with David Baker making 59 not out. Leatherhead remain in pole position in the Division Three table, four points clear of second-placed Egham.
